CAPT. MAURY HILL, ARRIVES HOME FROM OVERSEAS

Son of Walker Hill Achieved Brilliant Record as an Aviator—Was Once Reported Killed.

AT 23, HE IS AMONG YOUNGEST OF HIS RANK

Declares the Allies Had the Advantage in the Air in Battle of Argonne Forest.

Capt. Maury Hill of the Twenty-fourth Aero Squadron, whose flying record in France has been brilliant, arrived home from overseas this afternoon. He is the son of Walker Hill, 5505 Lindell boulevard, president of the Mechanics-American National Bank, and is 23 years old, being one of the youngest officers of his rank in the American Air Service.

One of his exploits was successful combat with a superior force of German planes, in which he outmaneuvered the enemy, gaining a position from which his observer, Lieut. John W. Cousins, was enabled to shoot down a boche. On several occasions he flew into Germany, and once his motor failed when he was 19 miles inside the enemy lines. He reached safety, pumping gas with one hand and flying his plane with the other.

Capt. Hill was erroneously reported in official casualty lists last October as having been killed in an airplane accident. His father refused to credit the report because he had letters from his son of a date subsequent to that on which the accident was reported to have taken place. The error subsequently was established by the War Department.

In St. Mihiel Offensive.

A Post-Dispatch reporter, who at Indianapolis met the train bringing Capt. Hill to St. Louis, asked him to relate the experiences of a flyer on the battle front. Capt. Hill modestly asked to be excused for telling of his personal adventures, saying that these experiences were common to all flyers. He was with the Ninety-first Squadron from the beginning of his service in April until the St. Mihiel offensive in September, when he entered the Twenty-fourth. The two squadrons were together in St. Mihiel and in the Argonne-Meuse fighting, the latter lasting until the armistice.

"The allies had the edge in the air fighting in the Argonne," Capt. Hill said. "At Chateau-Thierry the boche had the edge, but after that we kept the advantage. When we were sending over from 10 planes to 40 and 50 a day for deep reconnoissance and were photographing every concentration, I don't see how anyone can say that we were at a disadvantage in the air in the Argonne.

"It is true that the enemy was not wholly stopped from sending planes over, but they were not able, as we were, to carry out their general orders, which were the same as ours—namely, when you see a ship on your own side of the lines attack it whatever the odds are. The observer has a dirty job. Compared to him, the pilot is safe. The pilot has the protection of the motor and gasoline tank, while the observer is at the rear, from which the attack almost always comes. My observer, Lieut. Cousins, got through as I did.

Says Allies Held Advantage

"The Germans used to send single ships, seldom penetrating deep, but going up 22,000 feet. They were able to make photographs from this height because of the fine lenses they had, while 18,000 feet was about overtime for photography. However our pursuit planes dropped three times as many bombs as the Germans did. We bombed their machine guns and their ammunition dumps. The British did most of the bombing of German towns, but we would have begun it if the war had lasted longer.

"The Twenty-fourth, in its three months of service, and the Ninety-first, in eight months, got more than forty Hun ships and lost about fourteen. The Twenty-fourth lost three teams and one observer wounded. The losses of the Ninty-first in eight months were about 100 per cent of the original number. A squadron contains three flights, each flight having 12 flyers and 30 enlisted men."

Capt. Hill was a senior at Cornell University when the United States entered the war. He was admitted to an officers' flying school upon his application and later was commissioned a Lieutenant, gaining his promotion to a captaincy last October. He was graduated from Smith Academy in 1913 as class valedictorian, was captain of the football team and member of the baseball, basket ball and tennis teams. Upon his arrival from France Jan. 20 he was met in New York by his parents, who returned home ahead of him.

BOGUS $20 BILLS ARE BEING SPENT AMONG MERCHANTS

They Are Federal Reserve Bank Notes and Are Raised From $1's, $2's and $5's.

If somebody comes in and buys something and hands you what looks like a $20 Federal Reserve Bank note, take a good look at the picture on it. If you find yourself looking into the face of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln or Andrew Jackson, call a policeman. It's a raised bill.

The explanation is that Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Jackson do not belong on $20 bills. Washington is a $1 man, Jefferson $2, Lincoln $5, and Jackson $10. Every good $20 Federal Reserve Bank note has a picture of Grover Cleveland on it.

The bills, which look like $20's and which are being passed on shop keepers, are raised 1's, 2's or 5's. The ends bearing the small figures have been clipped off, and the ends of 20s pasted on. It is a good job of pasting and hard to detect, but the picture reveals the counterfeit.

Secret service operatives say a great many of the clipped bills are in circulation, and warn everybody to look good at the picture before accepting a $20.

It takes two good $20's to make a bogus $20, which might not look like good business, but the mutilated bills can be redeemed for their face value as long as not more than one-fourth has been clipped off.

FORTUNE TELLER FINED $200 AND HIS $200 BOND FORFEITED

Told Policewoman That Man Was Willing to Divorce His Wife to Marry Her.

Another clairvoyant who failed to divine that his client was a policewoman, was fined $200 and costs in Police Court today, in the campaign which is being made to rid the city of fortune tellers. Judge Sanders also forfeited a $200 bond when the defendant, Edward Dawson, of 3907 West Belle place, failed to appear.

One policewoman testified she went in to "have her fortune told" Jan. 25, while two others remained outside. "Professor" Dawson appeared to go into a trance, she said, and then he told her that a man was willing to divorce his wife to marry her. The policewoman, who happened to be unmarried, interrupted the "professor" before he got any farther, and asked him the amount of his fee. It was $1. Then the other policewoman came in and made the arrest. They also charged him with resisting arrest. He was fined $100 on this count, and $100 for practicing clairvoyancy. His bondsman was John Kelly.

METAL TRADES COUNCIL CONDEMNS KIEL'S U. R. DEAL

Body Representing 30 Local Labor Unions Votes by Big Majority to Repudiate Recent Action of Trades and Labor Union.

C. OF C. REFERENDUM BALLOTS ARE MAILED

Civic League Asks Circuit Attorney to Petition Supreme Court to Set Aside Affirmance of Jefferson Line Franchise.

President Aloe of the Board of Aldermen, who is acting Mayor in the absence of Mayor Kiel, reiterates his repudiation of the Mayor deal with the United Railways.

The Civic League today asked the Circuit Attorney to petition the State Supreme Court to set aside the order made by that court in accordance with the stipulation and agreement entered into between city officials and the United Railways in the Jefferson avenue franchise case.

Ballots for the Chamber of Commerce membership referendum on Mayor Kiel's deal with United Railways are being mailed to members with notice that the votes must be in by 5 p. m. next Monday.

Announcement by the president of the Metal Trades Council that the delegates to the organization, coming from 30 local labor unions with a combined membership of more than 22,000, had voted to repudiate the Central Trades and Labor Union's indorsement of the Mayor's deal and voted money to aid in the campaign to recall Mayor Kiel. Delegates from these local unions also sit in the Central Trades and Labor Union.

The State Public Service Commission ordered an audit of the books and a valuation of the property of United Railways for the commission. It is expected to be completed by June 1, when the 6-cent fare order expires.

The Metal Trades Council held a meeting last night in rooms 803 and 804 Pontiac Building and among other things considered the Central Trades and Labor Union's indorsement of Mayor Kiel and his deal with the United Railways.

Meetings of this council are never open to newspaper reporters, but after last night's session Edward W. Kumming, president of the council, stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the organization had gone on record by an overwhelming majority against Kiel and his United Railways deal and had appropriated money to help circulate petitions for Kiel's recall.

Kumming said the council represented 30 labor union locals with a total membership of more than 22,000, and that a full representation of delegates from the various trades in the council was present. The reporter estimated the number of delegates who entered the rooms at 25.

"The delegates, by overwhelming majorities, voted to sustain the votes of our representatives in the Central Trades and Labor Union, who a week ago Sunday voted against the indorsement of Kiel," Kumming said, in telling of what occurred in the meeting. "They also voted on a separate motion condemning the Mayor's settlement with the United Railways.

Money for Recall Vote.

"A third motion to appropriate $5 from the treasury for the Citizens' Referendum League to help circulate petitions for the recall of Kiel was carried by a large margin. A direct vote on the recall of Kiel was not taken, but the appropriation of $5 for circulation of the petitions should leave no doubt in anyone's mind as to the wishes of the council."

Kumming refused to give the number or names of locals represented in the council or any other information of what took place. It could not be ascertained if the delegates had been instructed by their locals how to vote.

This was the third great labor executive board to take action on this question, the Central Trades and Labor Union and the Building Trades Council having previously expressed themselves—the former for Kiel and the deal by a vote of 116 to 71, and the latter having adopted a resolution calling on members of its local unions to withhold judgment until

ALOE STANDS BY HIS REPUDIATION OF DEAL WITH UNITED RAILWAYS

Says Whitewashing of the Mayor by Aldermen Has Not Changed His Attitude.

President Aloe of the Board of Aldermen, who is Acting Mayor in the absence of Mayor Kiel in Washington, said today that he still repudiated Kiel's deal with the United Railways.

"I have not changed my attitude," he said, when questioned by a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I do not intend to change my attitude, no matter what the effect on me politically. I have been consistent in my attitude on this matter and I intend to remain so, no matter what the consequences."

The expression of Aloe's continued opposition to the deal is his first since the Board of Aldermen whitewashed the Mayor last Friday. Aloe did not participate in the whitewash, saying that inasmuch as the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, of which he is a member, was involved with the Mayor, it would be indelicate for him to vote.

Again Refers to Conference.

Aloe pointed out that the Mayor's original statement of the deal on Jan. 11 used the word "franchise" in the singular throughout. "Franchises" did not once appear.

"I have submitted that statement, in which I concurred at the time, to attorneys," Aloe said. "They have assured me that the statement did not indicate the extension of any franchise but that for the Jefferson avenue line."

Aloe again related how he was called into conference for the first time on the day the deal was announced, Jan. 11, though other conferences had been held on it. He said that he suggested the decision be deferred to allow public expression, but that Mayor Kiel said that it ought to be completed at once.

"But One Franchise Mentioned."

"City Counselor Dawes did all the talking," Aloe said, "yet he didn't say anything about the validation of any franchise but that of the Jefferson line. I could not be expected to know the legal effects of the deal. It was the duty of the City Counselor to inform me, but he did not."

He was asked if he favored the recall of Mayor Kiel.

"No, I do not," he replied. "I think the Mayor acted honestly in the deal. I do not know that either Kiel or Nolte understood its scope. Of course, they had conferences at which I was not present, but Dawes, in my presence, did not explain to them the full scope of the deal."

In reply to a question, Aloe said that he had not made up his mind whether to be a candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen at the April 1 election. The last day for filing is Feb. 24.

"TAKE HIM AWAY!" JUDGE DYER CRIES AT SIGHT OF HANDCUFFS

Deputy Had Lost Key and Jurist Is Opposed to Prisoners Being Manacled in Court.

Charles W. Richards of 816 Market street was in the Federal Court this morning waiting to be tried on a charge of retailing liquor without a Government license. He had been in jail a month and the Assistant United States Attorney announced that the defendant was without counsel.

"Step up here," commanded Judge Dyer, addressing the prisoner.

Richards advanced toward the rail in front of the Judge's desk.

"Take him out, take him out," shouted Judge Dyer, and, as the others in the courtroom looked on in surprise and the defendant himself bewildered, he was ushered from the room by a bailiff.

It developed that Richards was wearing handcuffs in violation of a stringent rule of the Judge. Explanations were sought and it was learned that the Deputy United States Marshal who had escorted Richards from jail had lost the key to the hand-cuffs. The deputy, evidently knowing what was in store for him, had disappeared. Richards was taken back to jail to have the hand-cuffs removed.

BIG MOONSHINE STILL ON LONG ISLAND NEAR NEW YORK

Revenue Men Take Alleged Whiskymakers and Find Great Underground Tank of Liquor.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Discovery of an illicit still, where vast quantities of "moonshine" whisky and alcohol were being manufactured, was made today at Valley Stream, Long Island, about 16 miles from New York, according to local agents of the Federal Internal Revenue Service. Three alleged "moonshiners" were arrested.

The plant was found, it was said, in a cooperage factory. Revenue officers located pipes leading to an enormous underground tank which was filled with liquor.

U. S. COURIERS TO BERLIN

Service Soon to Be Instituted From Coblenz.

By the Associated Press.

COBLENZ, Friday, Jan. 31.—A limited number of officers and enlisted men of the army of occupation will be given an opportunity to visit Berlin soon. A daily courier service will be instituted between this city and the capital.

Couriers were decided upon, owing to the uncertainty of the German mails and the slowness in transmission of documents of importance. Each courier will be accompanied by an officer and the train will be made by express trains between Coblenz and Berlin, the running time being about 12 hours.

LONDON IN THROES OF GENERAL HOTEL STRIKE

Vexing Situation Also Felt in West End Restaurants—Dinner to Ambassador Davis Off.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Thousands of Londoners who because of the shortage of domestic help during the war had become hotel dwellers, either went without breakfast this morning or were compelled to be satisfied with a cup of tea or coffee and a slice of bread. This situation was the result of the strike of the hotel workers, which has partly broken up the kitchen staffs and the table service in the large hotels of the West End.

The kitchen staffs which are largely made up of foreigners, demand an eight-hour day and 25 per cent increase in wages. The waiters demand the abolition of the system under which their tips are pooled and divided, with a commission on the takings deducted. They also demand a minimum wage of $10 weekly for women and $15 for men.

The smaller hotels were able to attend to their permanent guests, but in the larger ones, with accommodations for 1000 or more guests each, long lines of persons stood outside the dining rooms waiting vainly to be served. The hotel men declare they will not submit to the strikers' demands and that new forces for the establishments are being recruited.

The luncheon hour was a repetition of breakfast conditions. The best that any West End restaurant could do was to serve a few simple dishes. Waiters of British nationality are not on strike, so that city restaurants which are manned by Britishers were doing business as usual.

Several banquets booked for tonight at big hotels, including one in honor of American Ambassador Davis, have been canceled.

London started early to work today, owing to the strike in the tubes. By daybreak the streets were well filled with men and women walking from the suburbs and the busses when they started at 7 o'clock were crowded. Almost every one carried a tube striker who was urging the girl conductors to strike, but up to the present these efforts have been without success.

The Mansion House station, the most important in the business section of the city, was not open this morning. It is usually a height of activity at that hour, discharging early workers from the outlying parts of London.

The London District Railway was shut down this morning for although all the men did not join the strike, the staff at the power plant which supplies the current for the lines went out at an early hour without giving any reason. As this line, which has a circular route as well as many radical lines, carries thousands of passengers to all parts of the metropolis, the traffic situation became more serious.

The secretary of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, t which the engine drivers belong, announced at noon that all engine drivers on the railway lines having electric systems were being called out. He declared that if a settlement was not reached within a few hours a national strike involving all the railways would be called.

WILSON SPEECH ANSWER TO FRENCH ON LEAGUE PLAN

Address to Chamber Shows He Would Give France Future Security by Limiting German Power to Arm.

OPPOSED TO HEAVY WORLD ARMAMENT

Keeps Committee Handling Society of Nations Hard at Work and Hopes to Win French Over Fully.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
By Wireless to the New York Evening Post and the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—President Wilson endeavored by his speeech before the French Chamber last night to answer the natural objections which had been raised to the scheme of the league of nations as thus far presented.

The French Government favors the league, but at the same time wants to create such a league as our delegates, for instance, find incompatible with the American Constitution. The French believe the security of France is possible only by a strong standing army, and close economic control of raw materials internationally.

Mr. Wilson sought to make clear that large armament means extensive financial burdens for the people, and that there must be an end to the method of preserving peace.

The implications in Mr. Wilson's speech really are that armament must be limited, and Germany kept in such a state of military and naval impotency for the present at least that it will be unnecessary for France to maintain a large force for border prijects.

Cure for Fears of France.

In other words, Mr. Wilson's cure for the fears of France is to keep Germany militarily weak, thus gradually removing the necessity every country would have for large armaments.

Everybody is now favoring the league of nations, but the French want to go much further.

The final test of the approval of France, therefore, will be how much security the plan for the league will give.

The President is keeping his colleagues on the committee of the league of nations working day and night.

Copies of the "Covenant," as the plan has been named, have been distributed.

The present form has the approval of Great Britain and the United States, and virtually the approval of Italy.

French Make Reservations.

France has made several reservations. The French objections are of a practical character, which Mr. Wilson must meet. But he seems to be confident France will embark upon the scheme after the plans of the Reparation Committee are fully known, which contemplates making it impossible for Germany to appropriate money annually for an army and navy.

Bolsheviki to Take "All Measures" for Agreement With Powers

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.

THE Russian Soviet Government will take "all measures" to bring about an agreement with the Entente, according to a wireless message sent out from Moscow on Sunday.

The text of the wireless message which is addressed "to Berlin, Paris and everywhere," reads:

"M. Tchitcherin, the people's Commissary for Foreign Affairs, has made it known to the College of People's Commissaries that he had received a wireless message containing press news, according to which the Entente at Paris had proposed to the different Governments of Russia a conference at the Princes' Islands. The People's Commissary added that no formal invitation to the conference had arrived from the Entente. All measures will be taken to bring about an agreement with the Entente."

WILSON INSISTED ON 3-YEAR NAVY PROGRAM

President Quoted as Saying Nothing Has Happened at Paris to Change His Views.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Insistence by President Wilson upon the administration's policy of naval expansion led to the unanimous approval given by the House Naval Committee to another three-year construction program. This was disclosed today by Chairman Padgett of the committee when the House began considering the $750,000,000 annual naval appropriation bill.

The message was brought to the attention of the committee by Mr. Daniels. "The President was very earnest," Representative Padgett said, "and very insistent that the three-year progrem be carried out."

Padgett told of a cablegram sent by the President from Paris to Secretary Daniels, saying nothing had occurred over there to change the recommendation he made in his annual message to Congress.

Padgett refused to make public the cablegram, and it was under a cross-fire of questions from Republican members that he referred to its substance.

"Did he say in substance that lack of the program would be fatal to his negotiations?" asked Representative Rogers of Massachusetts, Republican.

"Excuse me from a statement," replied Padgett. "I will neither affirm nor deny a word that was in the cable. I will not give the words that he did or did not use."

WOULD GIVE HER EYES TO SON BLINDED BY SHELL IN FRANCE

"I Can Get Along Without Them, He Will Have to Make a Living," She Tells Red Cross.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TROY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Mrs. Margaret Waugh of South Troy was willing to sacrifice both her eyes that she might restore the sight of her son, blinded while fighting in France. But she could find no surgeon who did not frown on her project. Her son, James, 17 years old, was struck in the face by a fragment of shell in the fighting on Sept. 29 last. In the hospital he learned he would be permanently blind. He has been brought back to America, and after visiting his mother went to the hospital at Cape May.

"I want to give my eyes to my boy," said the mother to officials of the Red Cross. "He will need them and I can get along without them. He will have to go out in the world and try to make a living and I can stay at home and take care of it for him."

She was told that surgeons in the hospital say one of her boy's eyes may be saved by treatment.

SOCIETIES BEING FORMED TO SAVE HEAD OF FORMER KAISER

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 4.—Societies to "save the Kaiser" from being handed over to the allies are being organized in Germany, according to the Volks Zeitung of Osnabruck.

Gen. von Winterfeldt resigned Jan. 27 on the allegation that his dignity had been offended. The identity of Gen. von Hammerstein is uncertain, but the officer referred to probably is Gen. Baron Lous von Hammerstein-Loxten, a veteran army officer who has been Governor-General of the invalid home for soldiers in Berlin since 1364.

PRESIDENT GIVES ALL HIS TIME TO WORK ON LEAGUE

Presides at First Meeting of Commission Handling Subject and Another Session Will Be Held Tonight to Consider Text Agreed on.

STRONG HOPE TASK WILL BE DONE SOON

Possible That Full Session of Peace Conference Will Adopt Constitution Before Wilson Starts Back to United States.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—President Wilson has several appointments for today, including a call from representatives of the Bible Society and visits from some Republican Congressmen who have arrived in Paris. He is determined, however, that nothing shall be permitted to obstruct the progress of the commission of which he is chairman and which now is engaged in perfecting the scheme for the creation of a society of nations.

He is, therefore, concentrating his attention upon that work. While less than two weeks remain before the date set for his return to Washington it is still regarded as within the range of possibility for the great project, not only to be reported from the commission, but also for the peace conference in plenary session to ratify the plan and thus put it fairly in the way to be registered in treaty form within the time limit. This would make a record for international conferences, but the Paris gathering already has done that in several instances.

Greek Commission Decided On.

The Supreme Council at its meeting today agreed that questions in the statement of Premier Venizelos concerning Greek territorial interests in the peace settlement should be referred to a commission of experts whose duty it would be to make recommendations for a just settlement.

The commission will be composed of two representatives each from the United States, the British Empire, France and Italy.

The commission about to start for Poland was received for a final discussion of the situation. Afterward Premier Venizelos continued his presentation of the Greek case, particularly concerning the zone along Western Asia Minor.

Sentiment for Quick Treaty.

There is a growing feeling here that the treaty of peace should be speedily perfected. Arthur J. Balfour, the British Foreign Secretary, is engaged upon a proposition to fix the territorial boundaries of the defeated nations at once and promptly conclude peace with the enemy as so constituted.

With such an agreement on general principles as has been reached, it is held in some quarters that there may be no need to treat specifically such subjects as the freedom of the seas, the use of submarines in warfare, the creation of buffer states, or even the delimination of national boundaries with reference to their defensive possibilities. The idea is that there will be no necessity to consider the question of defense against a neighbor whose good behavior was assured.

Some questions, however, do require immediate consideration, it seems generally agreed. These are subjects such as the assessment of the damages caused by the war, the responsibility for the war, the regulation of the use of international waterways and railways, the difficulties presented by the present state of chaos in the treaty relations between the nations as one result of the war, and treatment of the labor question by international accord.

Some of these problems would require a long time to settle, notably the determining of the actual damage inflicted by the enemy, although it has been suggested that adjustment of this question might be facilitated by the adoption of an estimate of the gross sum, based on the preliminary examinations which already have been made by army officers.

One way of solving the problems which may be adopted would be through the creation of various commissions to work after the final adjustment of the peace conference, with full powers to enforce the execution of their decrees.

President Wilson presided at the open meeting of the league of nations commission which was held in E. M. House's apartments yesterday afternoon and lasted from 2 to 5 o'clock.

ANTI-GOVERNMENT ACTIVITIES TO BE INVESTIGATED

Senate Votes to Increase Power of Propaganda Committee So It May Inquire Into Bolshevism.

SPEAKERS AT CAPITAL PRAISED SOVIET

Meeting at Washington Theater Attended by Congressman Denounced by Senators.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—After extended and vigorous criticism by several Senators of alleged lawless propaganda the Senate today adopted a resolution extending the powers of the Senate committee investigating German propaganda to inquire into other activities which it was charged sought the overthrow of the Government.

In the Senate, Senator Kellogg of Minnesota declared propaganda was "being carried on by an active organization seeking to overthrow the Government by violence."

Senator Myers of Montana reiterated criticisms made yesterday by Senator Thomas of Colorado of a public meeting held in a Washington theater Sunday in which the Russian Bolshevik Government was reported praised and which was attended by several members of the House.

Foreigners in the I. W. W.

Senator Thomas interrupted Senator Kellogg's statements to name the Industrial Workers of the World as an active lawless organization. Senator Kellogg said the I. W. W. included foreign anarchists, and Senator Borah of Idaho observed that it had "the same element to which we sent $100,000,000 the other day."

Senator Kellogg read from what he said apparently was a paid advertisement in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of Jan. 23, entitled "Lenine's Appeal to the Bolshevik of America," an alleged evidence of an active propaganda.

Senator Walsh of Montana, asked if the Senate Judiciary Committee investigating German propaganda had authority to inquire into the source of the advertisement. Chairman Overman not that committee expressed doubt of its authority and said he did not believe its jurisdiction extended sufficiently to inquire into other propaganda.

[Editor's Note—The article referred to was a news article reprinted in the Post-Dispatch from the "Liberator," a radical Socialist publication, as was stated in the introduction to the article.]

Senator Weeks of Massachusetts declared that the people of the United States do not understand that the real purpose of the propaganda was to overthrow the Government, and until that was understood, it could not be stamped out. To have the meetings held in Washington "in a building owned by the Government," Senator Weeks added, made it more serious.

Speakers Praised Soviet.

A resolution calling upon the Attorney-General to inform the Senate whether he was making an investigation of the circumstances surrounding the feeding, and what steps were being taken relative to the enforcement of law in the District of Columbia, was introduced by Senator Poindexter of Washington.

Senator Borah said it was only fair to say that at that meeting the overthrow of the Government was not preached, but that speakers did defend the Russian Soviet Government.

When the Senate Judiciary subcommittee which has been investigating German and brewers' propaganda met today a heated discussion was started by an announcement by Chairman Overman that Secretary Baker had refused to give the committee information concerning an investigation by the War Department of alleged pro-German sentiments of F. J. H. von Engelkin, former president of the Federal Farm Loan Bank at Columbia, S. C.

Senator Overman said Secretary Baker in declining to furnish the information had written him that the department conducted an inquiry and believed the charges had not been sustained.

Would Make Test Case.

Senator Wolcott of Delaware insisted that they make a test case of the Von Engelkin matter and see whether Secretary Baker's position could be sustained.

Senator Nelson of Minnesota declared he wanted the public to know that the Secretary of War was "putting a veto on us and hindering this investigation."

"Does the Secretary of War take the position that we cannot call anyone from any department and have him tell us from his own memory what he knows even if he does not bring papers?" asked Senator Wolcott.

"No, he realizes that we can do that," Senator Overman said.

"We could call the Secretary himself before any committee of Congress," continued Senator Wolcott.

VISIT TO RUSSIA AND A TALK WITH LENINE DISILLUSION AN AMERICAN RADICAL, ROBERT MINOR

Says "Nationalized Industry," Hailed as the Dawn of the New Day for the Proletariat, Has Resulted in Putting Business Class Back in the Saddle as "People's Commissaries" With Greater Power Than Ever.

BERLIN, via Copenhagen, Monday, Feb. 3.—Robert Minor, the American cartoonist, whose interview with Lenine, the Bolshevik leader, follows, furnishes the most important contribution that has been made to contemporaneous Russian history. In two more cabled articles he will explain what has occurred in the Russian revolution in the last few months. These cables will show that Minor is no Bolshevik. Texan-born, of Virginia blood, he is aggressively democratic. Because he thought there had been a miscarriage of justice, he gave a year of his life to save Thomas J. Mooney from hanging in San Francisco. Then he went to Russia, where he thought the Bolsheviki were giving the perfect liberty that he craved. After living through that terror, he has come to Berlin, disillusioned and embittered. This is Minor's story:

By ROBERT MINOR.

I have just come from Moscow, where, a little more than one month ago, I had a talk with Lenine, which bears materially upon the present difficulty in which the Entente finds itself in relation to the Bolshevik Government.

Previously I had talked with him casually during my stay of nine months in Russia. This time Lenine knew he was giving an interview, and he appreciated the effect it might have on the outside world. As far as I know, it is the only interview he ever granted since he has been in power in Russia.

He couched his thoughts in terms of world revolution, as one riding wild horses who felt that his hold in the saddle depended on his maintaining the attitude of the world's most uncompromising rebel.

It will be noticed, however, that while his intransigent phrases flow with rapid, automatic ease, his manner became different and much more deliberate when I introduced the subject that had led me to seek him—the return of the Bolsheviki to the Entente and the possibilities of an understanding.

Certain Lenine Wanted Peace.

I felt certain that Lenine wants peace. It was that feeling that took me to him. All Moscow, indeed, had been drifting into almost certain knowledge that he had become willing to comply with the prime prerequisite of peace, namely, to pay the war debts contracted by the old regime, which had been repudiated by the Soviets in the early days of their defiance.

In the note to President Wilson by Tchitcherin, the Peoples' Commissary for Foreign Affairs, the tone was undeniably insolent, but tucked away under the sulphuric phrases one might detect a feeler as to the nature of the allies' demands. I had noticed that, while its sarcastic wording was accepted as orthodox by the Socialist party hacks, the more alert caught in the phrases a significant willingness to pay the debts.

I may say it is not easy for the Bolshevik chiefs to show any spirit of compromise before the anarchist forces in Russia, which, while they are fast subsiding, yet remain much stronger than the men who are trying to rule Russia.

I approached Lenine with the view of helping him to pave the way for a definite answer to the invitation to the various Russian factions to meet in conference with representatives of the allies at Princes' Islands, in the Sea of Marmora. I said to him I was leaving Russia and wanted something definite to carry away. He exchanged glances with his collaborator, Boris Reinstein, the former Buffalo soapbox orator, and slowly replied:

"The Russian Government would be inclined to pay its debts if, by that means, the war against it could be stopped."

As he spoke I wrote down the words and read them aloud. "That is corect," he said.

"Want Peace—Ready for War."

After silence for a moment, he went on: "We want peace, and have proposed peace many times, but" pausing, with an expression of intense seriousness—"we are prepared to go on with the war, and are confident of victory. Our armies have had fine successes since the capture of Kazan and Samara, down to the present time. In the last few days we have heard of nothing but new victories."

Lenine evidently intended to rest with that, and so I approached to the second point of the interview.

"What about the league of nations?" I asked him. "Has the recent entry of the non-Bolshevik leaders into the Government affected the eligibility of the Soviets for the league of nations?"

Lenine caught me up before I had finished, his usually mild voice becoming suddenly harsh. "They are not forming a league of nations," he said, "but a league of imperialists to strangle the nations. President Wilson is a shrewd man," he added dryly.

Turning to the other angle of the question, he continued:

"The Menshevist Martoff came into the Government because he saw he must choose between the Russian Soviet and extreme reaction."

Lenine could not afford to tell the whole truth about the entrance of non-Bolsheviki into the Government or he must maintain the intransigent front. The main fact in the new situation is that the so-called nationalization of Rusian industry has put insurgent industry back into the hands of the business class, who disguise their activities by giving orders under the magic title of "People's Commissaries." That is the only title that commands obedience. Ignoring this essential fact, Reinstein mentioned the conversion of Maxim Gorki, and Lenine smiled. All the Russians make a god of Gorki. There were other vital points concerning which I wished to press Lenine, but he kept trying to interview me.

"If the Allies Send Armies?"

"What are the allies going to do with their troops in Russia?" he demanded. "Do they want to support the old feudal interests, which are comparable to the German junker interests? What are the American soldiers like individually; would they be susceptible to propaganda?"

In order to regain control of the interview, I asked: "What will you do if the allies send big armies against you?"

"If they send anything short of very big armies," he replied, "we will defeat them."

"And if they do send very big armies?" I persisted.

"Then they will make a very big war," he answered, smiling, but without mirth.

Suddenly changing the subject, he asked: "What do you think of the Red army?" I said I thought the Red army within a few weeks had submitted to the most exacting discipline in the world, revolutionary discipline, as the Bolsheviks call it, which contrasts as much as possible against the former propaganda against obedience to orders.

"What do you think of the decorations for the anniversary of the revolution?" Lenine went on. "Do they look to you like the work of futurists, and, if so, do they not promise for the revolution what futurist promises for art, after a period? How was it after the French revolution? You know France, and what chance there is for a revolution there now."

"Revolution in America?"

Then he asked me a question that astonished me, for the way he put it, rather than for the words he used. "How soon will the revolution get to America?" was his question. The tone was confident. He did not ask me IF it would reach America, but WHEN, as if he took it for granted that some day the Red flag would wave in Washington. I did not reply, and he went on:

"I wonder how," he asked, "Gompers can hold the labor unions as subservient to the imperialists as he is. Debs is an old man and in prison. I wonder if he will survive his term. It is a shame he was condemned. What is he like personally?" I have never seen him. Why doesn't the American Federation of Labor do anything about Big Bill Heywood's imprisonment? Is Jim Larkin a man of intellectual power? He is in prison, too, isn't he?"

This reminiscent interest in America is shared even by those who damn the Government. Every returned revolutionist retains affection for the country on one ground or another. Lenine continued:

"America is a great country, great in technical achievements. Marvelous developments are possible there. The American Daniel de Leon first formulated the idea of a Soviet Government, which grew up in Russia on his idea. Future society will be organized along Soviet lines. There will be Soviet rather than geographical boundaries for nations. Industrial unionism is the basic state. That is what we are building."

I did not agree with Lenine's idea of what he is building, but said nothing. There is no more industrial unionism in Lenine's highly centralized institutions than in the United States postoffice. What he calls industrial unionism is nothing but nationalized industry in the highest degree of centralization.

This recent change has roused the bitter antagonism of the anarchist syndicalists, the strongest opponents Lenine now has. Industrial unionism is a mere phrase in the Bolshevik dogma. I said to Lenine I was going to Germany, and his interest quickened.

"You will arrive in time for the second revolution," he said. "If you get a chance, give my regards to Dr. Liebknecht, Rosa Luxemburg and Clara Zetkaind."

Lenine showed little interest in the present German control, but said he was waiting for the triumphs of Bolshevism. I remember once, he had told me, in the time of the Kaiser, how he had mechanical devices for smuggling propaganda into Germany to disrupt the army. Now that the German revolution had been accomplished without any show of warmth toward Soviet Russia, I asked him:

"What do you think of the refusal by the German revolutionary Government of the trainload of bread you sent there?"

"Scheidemann was a mere lackey of the Kaiser," he replied testily. "What could the world expect of him? He will defeat the German revolution if possible, just as he did everything possible to prevent it; but he is only a passing phase of the German revolution. The revolution will have natural development.

Capitalist System Bankrupt.

"What the capitalist rulers do not understand—this is going to trip them up—is that they have no way of solving the economical problems which are piling up after the war. Failure to solve them will surely bring revolution. The capitalist system is bankrupt. There is no solution but the Marxian. Exploitation of weak nations by strong capitalist nations cannot continue; in its place there must be exchange of product for product, without exploitation."

As Lenine talked to me he kept hitching his chair nearer to mine until his knees touched mine, and his finger waved under my nose. I really felt submerged by his personality, which seemed to fill the room.

The tiptoeing stenographers and the sentries about him are seemingly treated as his equals, but it struck me they held him in greater awe than they had ever felt toward the Czar.

The interview was in the Kremlin, ancient seat of the Czars. As I came away two smart limousines drew up and deposited several well-dressed men of the business type. This class had been lying very low only a few months ago. They are of the type the Bolshevik creed denounces as "blood-thirsty minions of predatory capital."

There is a difference now. The business type ride in fine automobiles as before, live in fine mansions and are again managing the old industries, with more authority than ever before. Now they are "People's Commissaries"—servants of the proletariat—and the iron discipline of the army under red flags has been developed in order to protect them again against all annoyance. A rose smells as sweetly to them under any other name.

ROBERT MINOR.

Robert Minor is well known in St. Louis as a cartoonist. For several years he served the Post-Dispatch. His sympathies were always strongly socialistic and he gave freely of his time and means and skill for that cause. Early in the war he went to France and Italy to do illustrative work for an American syndicate. On his return he became interested in the Mooney case in San Francisco and went there. He reached Russia via the Pacific, after his San Francisco work was finished.

Reinstein Has Son With American Army; Ran for New York Offices. By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Boris Reinstein, mentioned by Robert Minor in his interview with Lenine, once ran for the lieutenant-governorship of New York State. He has a son with the American army, who has served in France. He ran for other offices, always on the Socialist Labor ticket, and, when not electioneering or spellbinding from a soap box, compounded prescriptions under the direction of his wife, Dr. Anna Reinstein, who enjoyed a wide practice among the Poles of Buffalo and vicinity. The career of Reinstein, before and after he came to this country, 18 years ago, and settled at Belleville, just outside Buffalo, has been typical of the Russian revolutionist.

He was born in Rostov, on the Don, 51 years ago. He received a fairly good education and was apprenticed to a druggist. In his early twenties the secret police of the Czar chased him out of the country, had him arrested in Paris and sent to prison as a plotter. When released he came to America. His wife was also of "revolutionary stock," for she had been born in prison, where her mother was sent as an agitator.

After reaching America, Reinstein at once joined the Socialist Labor party, and it was not long before he was high in its councils, aided by his ability as a speaker. He speaks and writes Russian, Polish, German and English. Reinstein formed an alliance with Daniel de Leon, who is regarded in Socialist circles as one of the ablest leaders the movement has produced in America.

The ultra-radicalism of Reinstein was not always profitable to his family, and they are said to have suffered financial losses both here and abroad through his constant agitation.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and other disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidney or your back hurts, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids so they no longer cause irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—ADV.

GERMANS AND FRENCH IN LIVELY DEBATE IN BERNE

Former Berlin Commander Accuses British of "Killing 700,000 Persons by Hunger Blockade."

RESPONSIBILITY FOR WAR DISCUSSED

Wels Says German Socialists Settled That — Chairman Speaks in French and in German.

By the Associated Press.

BERNE, Feb. 4.—A violent rhetorical duel between the French and German Socialists, with many reciprocal reproaches and accusations, marked the second sitting last night of the international labor and social conference. The French side of the debate was in the hands of Pierre Renaudel, Albert Thomas and M. Mistral.

Otto Wels, the former military commander of Berlin, said that the German Socialists already had settled the question of responsibility for the war in having taken all power from the Princes and Kings. Wels accused Great Britain of having killed 700,000 German women, children and old men by the "hunger blockade."

Albert Thomas, the French Socialist and former member of the War Council, offered a motion at the Socialist conference yesterday, placing at the head of the program questions of the responsibility for the war and the future of Socialism. The motion follows:

"The Berne Socialist conference, considering that a cataclysm deliberately loosed by a few men has inflicted upon the world nameless calamities and threatens to harrow up civilization itself and considering on the other hand that all hopes of a just and lasting peace depend upon the possibility of founding a society of nations; that there can be no society of nations without trust, and that international public faith would remain forever compromised if the Governments which have violated it could escape punishment for their crimes and if Socialist chiefs who made themselves accomplices of these Governments were not branded outcasts by the internationale, has decided to inscribe at the head of its agenda the question of governmental responsibilities in the causes of the war, that of violation of neutralities which had been placed under the guarantees of Europe and that of the responsibility of Socialists involved.

"On the other hand, the conference, considering that the future of Socialism in the world is threatened with greatest dangers by new tendencies called Bolshevism, decides to place in the second position on its agenda the role of democracy in the establishment of Socialist order."

Arthur Henderson, the British labor leader, opened the Socialist conference yesterday afternoon with a brief address showing the difficulties he, Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor; Albert Thomas, the French labor leader, and Emile Vandervelde, the Belgian Socialist chief, experienced in arranging the conference at all. He proposed the name of Hjalmar Branting, the Swedish Socialist leader, for president. He was elected unanimously. It was officially announced that 80 delegates, representing 21 different countries, were present, and that more were expected soon, including 17 Americans.

Hjalmar Branting delivered the presidential address, sometimes in French and sometimes in German—setting forth the situation confronting Socialism. There was applause when the speaker remarked that if the peace conference at Paris "represented the ruling classes, he hoped Berne would represent the working classes."

There was general approval and some cheering when Branting declared: "President Wilson is the great protector of working men and the founder of the league of nations." Branting also praised Mr. Wilson's "fourteen points."

Berne Conference German Plot, Say Russell and Walling.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The Berne Socialist Conference, to which many Socialist bodies in Europe have failed to send representatives, is the outcome of a German plan to help Germany retrieve her military defeat and escape the payment of just indemnities, is the belief of Charles Edward Russell and William English Walling, speaking in behalf of the Social Democratic League of the United States. Russell and Walling gave out the following statement on the subject in the name of the league:

"As delegates of our organization we decline to go to Berne because, despite the pretension that the world's laboring classes are represented there, its principal movers are those in all countries who tried to cause peace when it would have meant the triumph of imperialism and the ruin of the working class democracy.

"We note that the General Federation of Trades Unions of Great Britain has no representation there, nor the Italian Socialist party, representing the majority of the Italian Socialists; nor the Belgian Socialist party, nor the American Federation of Labor, and that 40 Socialists in the French Chamber of Deputies allowed their delegates to go only under protest and under the threat that their action would be repudiated unless the Scheidemann group was excluded.

"We also note that one-third of the delegates are recognized by the Bolsheviki as sympathetic with their doctrines.

"We believe that the Berne conference is designed by Germany to redeem her from military defeat and avoid the payment of a just indemnity by intrigue and secret diplomacy."

PRESIDENT DEVOTES ALL HIS TIME TO WORLD LEAGUE PLAN

meeting, owing to the feeling that the action of the council on the matter of the former German colonies required the early presentation of a definite plan on the constitution of the league.

There were present for the United States, President Wilson, E. M. House and Mr. Miller, technical expert; for Great Britain, Lord Robert Cecil and Gen. Smuts; for France, Leon Bourgeois and Ferdinand Larnaude; for Italy, Premier Orlando; for Japan, Baron Chinda, as well as delegates from Belgium, Serbia, Brazil, Portugal and China.

President Wilson greeted the members and took a leading part in the discussion. This was no longer general, but specific, as the meeting agreed plan for the formation of the league. The text was in English, as had been decided upon at a recent meeting between President Wilson, Lord Robert Cecil, Gen. Smuts and Premier Orlando.

As some of the members of the commission do not speak English, it was determined to defer full discussion until the French text could be presented, when the debate will proceed article by article. This probably will be tonight.

Other Plans to Come Up.

Although the agreed text seeks to bring together the views of all quarters, there are three other plans which will also be considered at the next meeting. The following official communication was issued on yesterday's meeting.

"The commission met to compare views on procedure and to arrive at a method which will facilitate progress. It was agreed that an accord in principle had been reached by the resolution previously passed by the conference and that the discussion should proceed accordingly at the next meeting, which is called for 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Hotel de Crillon.

Leon Boureois, the French proponent of a league of nations, transmitted to the Society of Nations Committee recommendations as to principles which have been submitted to him by the International Association for Promotion of a league of nations.

One of the recommendations urged the establishment by the society of nations of an international commission on education. Other recommendations were of a military nature. One of these would bind the associated states to prohibit the sales of arms and munitions now possessed or which may be ultimately manufactured, to states outside the league while another would prohibit the trade and manufacture of arms and munitions of war by private establishments. It also was recommended that the society of nations shall fix the number to be enrolled in the military and naval forces of each member having regard only for possible aggression from states outside the league or in revolt against it. It adds that the associated states should impose upon the Central Powers by peace treaty, limitations of armaments and the control of their manufacture so as to permit members of the society of nations to reduce immediately and substantially their military establishments.

"Get to Work for Justice."

Louis L. Klotz, French Minister of Finance, was elected president of the Peace Conference Committee on Reparation yesterday. In the briefest speech yet delivered during the conference, M. Klotz invited the members to get to work.

"Thank you," said M. Klotz, "now us get to work for justice. That is our program."

William M. Hughes, Australian Premier, and M. Vandenheuvel of Belgium were elected vice presidents.

Wednesday morning the committee will begin to discuss the general principles of reparation.

The commission on ports, waterways and railways held its first meeting yesterday. The meeting was called by M. Clavelle, French Minister of Public Works. On his motion Sig. Crispi, the Italian Minister of Supplies was named chairman and M. Sifton of Belgium vice chairman. The Supreme Council asked for the admission of members of the smaller nationalities to this committee, which accordingly added a Czech, a Portuguese and a Pole.

The French and British presented a program including recognition of the general principle of the right of nations to control international waterways and international railways which was accepted by the commission. The details of this will be considered at the next meeting.

Responsibility Committee Meets.

An official communication issued yesterday by the commission on the responsibility for the war and its conduct says: "The initial meeting of the commission on the responsibility for the war and its conduct was held today at the Ministry of the Interior and was attended by the delegates of the Powers represented on the commission. Robert Lansing, Secretary of State and chief representative of the United States, was chosen president of the commission and Sir Gordon Stewart of the British delegation and Senator Scialoia of the Italian delegation were chosen vice presidents. M. de la Pradelle was appointed secretary of the commission.

"It was decided to appoint three sub-committees, two for the examination of questions of law and one for the examination of facts. The following persons were named as a committee of three to nominate members of the above mentioned subcommittee and to determine the mandate under which the subcommittees in question will act—W. F. Massey of the British delegation, M. Tardieu of the French delegation and M. Politis, Greek delegate."

Polish and Czech leaders have been given a pointed warning by the peace conference not to occupy territory in the province of Teschen, Austrian Silesia, according to an official bulletin, which says:

"Owing to the conflict between the Poles and Czechs at Teschen, resulting in the occupation of the Ostrau-Karwin mining district and the railroad from Oderburg to Teschen and Jablunkau by the Czechs, the great Powers have declared it necessary to remind the nationalists, who have agreed to submit territorial questions to the peace conference that they must refrain from occupying contested territories."

UTILITIES BOARD TO AUDIT U. R. BOOKS IN NEXT TWO WEEKS

Checking of Receipts and Expenses, Along With Valuation of Property, Expected to Be Done by June 1.

6-CENT FARE AWARD RUNS TO THAT DATE

Public Hearing Will Be Held in St. Louis—Commission's Whole Force Will Come Here for Work.

An audit of the books of the United Railways Co. and a valuation of its property will be begun by the State Public Service Commission within two weeks. It is expected that the task will be completed before June 1, at which time 6-cent fares cease under the commission's ruling establishing that fare.

William G. Busby, chairman of the commission, gave out the following statement:

"In reply to the suggestion made by certain St. Louis newspapers that the Public Service Commission examine the expenditures of the United Railways Co., the commission today issued the following statement:

"The commission has heretofore ordered an audit of the books of the company and a valuation of the property as a part of the commission's order putting in the temporary six-cent rate in St. Louis, and the commission's accountants and engineers plan to begin this work within the next two weeks and have it completed in time for the further hearing proposed to be held by the commission on or before June 1, 1919, the date of the expiration of the temporary six-cent rate.

The Six-Cent Fare Award.

"While the commission's accountants and engineers have never made an audit or valuation of the United Railways Co., it held a hearing upon the valuation made by the city and the company and the evidence offered by the parties, and put into effect the 6-cent fare as an emergency measure for a temporary period of one year, in order to enable the company to employ labor, purchase supplies and render service under war conditions.

"There was not time for the commission to make an audit and valuation through its own expert departments and it accepted for the purpose of its temporary order the value of $60,000,000 which had been agreed upon between the city and the company, the commission apportioning $52,800,000 to the property within the city and $7,200,000 to the property outside of the city.

"It will be necessary practically for the commission's entire accounting and engineering departments to remove to St. Louis during the work, and for that reason they have been at work cleaning up the audit and valuation of properties at St. Joseph and other places before beginning this large and important work at St. Louis.

Public Hearing Planned.

"The commission feels that it is fortunate in having very able accounting and engineering departments who have successfully audited the books and accounts and valued the property of many large utilities in this State. They are men of long experience in their particular plan of work, well qualified to duly classify proper and improper operating charges of any public utility, and their work in St. Louis will be thorough, complete, fair and impartial.

"The case will also be set down for a public hearing and investigation at St. Louis before the commission of the company's receipts and expenses and the value of its property, and the commission hopes to be able to authoritatively settle these questions."

C. OF C. PROTESTS AGAINST TWO SECTIONS OF NEW REVENUE BILL

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce has wired to Washington vigorously protesting against the including of sections 1409 and 1410 in the revenue bill. These sections require every business man, or firm, according to the chamber, carrying a contract with the Government to furnish most elaborate and detailed information regarding it within 60 days of the passage of the act.

It is pointed out by the chamber that the sections are evidently intended to reach the profiteer, but in doing so, it mischeviously puts upon the legitimate business man a traffic burden.

Another protest, voiced by the Board of Directors last Saturday is against the proposed passing of Senate bill 5037 providing that the Metric System of weights and measures be used by the Government commencing in 1920. This was based on the report of a special committee named to consider the bill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—To Capt. Edward Victor Rickenbacker, U. S. A., who two years ago was a first-rate motor car racer, but who is now the ace of aces of our air fighting force, was offered last night the greatest individual tribute New York has yet paid a warrior returned.

Six hundred of his friends and admirers, in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf, cheered him and toasted him and shouted and sang to him. Beside him sat Secretary of War Baker. Nearby was the head of his service, Major-General Charles T. Menoher.

His new "pals" of the air, fellow-aces, and his old "pals" of the speedway, were there too. The leading automobile makers and aero enthusiasts were arranged about.

When Rickenbacker was called upon to rise and bow, he waved his right hand toward a box in the gallery. And there belonged—according to his views—the one to whom more honor was due. He pointed out an old-fashioned little woman whose eyes beamed from behind gold-rimmed spectacles, whose reddish-brown hair was parted in the middle and waved in a quaint fashion of years ago and whose black silk gown was trimmed at the throat with old white lace, such as one seldom sees nowadays outside pictures.

"My mother," said the ace of aces to those who sat close to him. Then his hand snapped to his forehead in salute, in the same fashion as he would have saluted the flag. And it was fine to see the hand of Secretary Baker salute and that of Gen. Menoher and of Henry Van Dyke and Congressman Clifford Ireland of Illinois, the chairman of the dinner, and likewise the hands of "Rick's" fellow airmen, Maj. Jimmie Meissner and Capt. Douglas Campbell and Lieut. Paul Baer, and the British ace, Maj. Walker-Lee, and also that salutes were offered by "Rick's" old track companions, Eddie Bald, Louis Chevrolet, Ralph de Palma, Ray Harroun, Barney Oldfield and Dario Resta.

The cheers literally shook the windows of the grand ballroom. Three times Mme. Rickenbacker had to stand up before the noise ceased, and each time she did stand up her son and Secretary Baker stood with their hands raised to their foreheads in salute to her.

A message from Gen. Pershing, read by Secretary Baker, said:

"The history of the American air service on the western front is as remarkable for its sound and successful development of aviation tactics as for its spirit of unselfish devotion and daredevil gallantry, which is unsurpassed by anything that the great war has produced. Capt. Rickenbacker has written some of its brightest pages and on behalf of the American Expeditionary Forces I am proud to bear witness to our admiration for the air service and for him."

METAL TRADES COUNCIL CONDEMNS KIEL'S U. R. DEAL

they had made a thorough investigation of the charges against Kiel.

Inquiry disclosed that among the trades represented in the Metal Trades Council are the sheet metal workers, blacksmiths, machinists, engineers, foundry employes, electrical workers, molders, polishers, stove-mounters and pattern-makers.

In addition to the action of this council 15 locals in the last week have repudiated the vote of Central Trades and Labor Union on the Mayor's deal with the United Railways.

The District Board of the Iron Molders' Union, composed of eight locals with a membership of about 2000, met last Sunday and voted unanimously to condemn Kiel's settlement, according to J. C. McCormack, business agent of the board, who added that the question was brought before the meeting on the report of their delegates to Central Trades and Labor Union. McCormack said the board sustained their delegates, who had voted in the Central Trades against Kiel.

JEFFERSON AVENUE FRANCHISE HEARING ASKED ON ITS MERIT

The Civic League today formally requested Circuit Attorney McDaniel to petition the Supreme Court to set aside the order made by that Court in accordance with the agreement entered into by the city officials and the United Railways in the Jefferson avenue franchise case. The request is a resolution adopted by the Executive Board of the league and reads as follows:

The Civic League, on its own behalf, as well as on behalf of all the citizens of St. Louis, respectfully appeals to the Circuit Attorney of the City of St. Louis to petition the Supreme Court of Missouri to set aside the order made by that Court, pursuant to an unauthorized and unlawful agreement or stipulation entered into by the Mayor and City Counselor and the United Railways Co., affirming the judgment of the St. Louis Circuit Court in the suit involving the Jefferson avenue franchise, and to reset the case, so that it may be briefed and argued on its merits and the great public questions involved be finally settled in a lawful and orderly way.

In the letter accompanying the resolution, the league states to McDaniel that the action is taken "in order that you may be strengthened in any thought of taking action in the Jefferson avenue franchise case." This case was instituted by Seebert Jones as Circuit Attorney "at the relation of the City of St. Louis," through the initiative of Lambert E. Walther, City Counselor at that time.

"The Jefferson avenue case," says the Civic League, "is the most important litigation that can lie between the city and the railways company, as it is a means of compelling a proper and complete reorganization and entirely new service stipulations."

Circuit Attorney McDaniel is in the East. His assistant, William Baer, is continuing his study of the legal phase of the case.

The St. Louis Millmen's Association, composed of planing mills in St. Louis and vicinity, yesterday sent an indorsement to Mayor Kiel, signed by 22 members, approving his action in the United Railways deal. Among the signers was the Huttig Sash and Door Co., of which A. J. Seigel, a director in the United Railways Co., is president. Siegel signed in person for his corporation.

The officers of the Huttig Sash and Door Co. are: A. J. Siegel, president; Annie E. Huttig, vice president; L. E. Clark, secretary, and Robert Bryars, treasurer. A list of shareholders of the North American Co. shows that this concern represents more stock than Festus J. Wade, Breckinridge Jones or Paul Brown. According to the latest list available, Siegel owns 900 shares, Bryars 1200; while the late C. H. Huttig is credited with 100, which, it is presumed, went to his estate. This makes a total of 2200 shares, which, at a par valuation of $100, means an aggregate of $220,000.

The North American, besides being the holding company for the United Railways, has another large interest in it. It makes a profit of several hundred thousand dollars a year out of the contract negotiated between the United Railways and the Mississippi Power Distributing Company for current supplied from the Keokuk dam. The North American, in other words, fares considerably better than the preferred stockholders, who collect nothing.

The Sixth and Hickory Street Service Flag Association, which describes itself as "comprised of over 200 representative citizens," yesterday indorsed the deal. The resolutions were signed by George W. Blodgett, president; Edward J. Romacker, secretary, and William Delphry, vice president.

The Bridge and Structural Iron-workers' District Council wrote to the Mayor that his deal with the United Railways met its approval and was for the best interests of the city. The council is composed of delegates from four unions. The letter was signed by J. P. Brice, president, and J. H. Barry, secretary-treasurer.

The address of Delos F. Wilcox of New York, announced by the Civic League yesterday, will be at the City Club Thursday noon. The subject will be, "What Shall We Do With Our Street Railways?"

Wilcox will confer with committees of the league interested in utility questions, and with the Executive Board of that body following his address.

FEW CRIMES IN PARIS INVOLVE U. S. SOLDIERS

Gen. Hart Reports That Story in One French Newspaper Was Malicious Exaggeration.

ONLY 39 SHOOTING AFFRAYS IN 10 MONTHS

Military Governor of Paris Says Relations Between Population and Soldiers Is Excellent.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Reports of widespread lawlessness on the part of the Americans, particularly from the American expeditionary forces, are wholly unfounded, declares Brigadier-General W. W. Harts, the American commander of the Paris district, in a report submitted to Major-General J. G. Harbord. The report gives the results of exhaustive investigations of printed and rumored reports of crime and lawlessness. It is based on records of the American Provost Marshal, the French police and other sources.

Gen. Harts says that the persistent appearance of newspaper articles accusing the Americans of lawlessness "has led to the impression that there is some anti-American propaganda at work in Paris which some have ascribed to German sources." He says that incontrovertible figures show that criminal offenses committed in Paris and ascribed to American soldiers from January, 1918, to January, 1919, were extremely few in proportion to the number of American soldiers in Paris during that period.

"Malicious Exaggeration."

One Paris newspaper recently ascribed to American soldiers a total of 34 murders, 250 day and night attacks and 550 "bloody combats" during December. Gen. Harts characterizes this as malicious exaggeration and says that the records show that serious offenses committed by Americans during December totaled two cases of assault and battery, three cases of housebreaking and seven cases of disorderly conduct.

Inviting attention to the fact that more than 25,000 soldiers have been stationed in Paris at one time and that some 3000 pass through the city daily, Gen. Harts gives the following data of cases of crime in which American soldiers were concerned as reported by the prefect of the Paris police:

"From Jan. 4, 1918, to November, 1918, there were 39 shooting affairs. From June to December there were six cases of this kind. During January there were three cases of attempted murder, one of manslaughter, 13 of assault and battery, six of robbery and seven of thefts of automobiles. Of six shooting affairs four were between members of the military police quarreling among themselves. The fifth was the accidental wounding of a French gendarme, who himself exonerated the American concerned. The sixth was the murder of a gendarme by a gang attempting to rob a freight car."

"Relations Excellent."

Gen. Harts keeps in constant touch with Gen. Monier, the French military governor of Paris, in connection with the maintenance of order.

When he recently issued an order restricting the carrying of firearms by others than military police actually on duty, Gen. Monier wrote him a complimentary letter, in which he referred to the excellent relations existing between the American expeditionary force and the population of Paris.

TWO POSED AS DETECTIVES

Searched Delmar Boulevard Home and Threatened to Arrest Occupants.

Two men, who said they were city detectives, entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Babbitt, 3849 Delmar boulevard, at 8 o'clock last night and, after threatening the Babbitts and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Fink, 2615 Market place, proceeded to search the house.

They took Mrs. Babbitt's purse from a drawer and then searched Fink. They failed to find his purse. As they backed out of the house they told the victims they would return in a short time and "arrest" the entire party. When they failed to come back the police were called and the visitors branded as imposters.

DEEDS FOR WHICH 21 MEN WERE AWARDED MEDALS OF HONOR BY CONGRESS

War Department Announces Details of Presentations of Highest American Military Decoration—Several to Men of 89th.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The War Department today formally announced the details of the award of Congressional medals of honor, the highest American military decoration, to two officers and 19 enlisted men in the army in France. These awards were announced in the Post-Dispatch Saturday. Only three of the medals had been awarded previously for service in the great war. Names of others to whom medals have been awarded will be announced later.

All the awards were upon the recommendation of Gen. Pershing. By act of Congress the medal can be given only for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action."

The medal of honor carries with it gratuities and certain privileges. It is given by the Secretary of War on recommendation of the military commanders, each recommendation being reviewed by a board of officers.

WOULD HONOR NEGRO DIPLOMAT

Meeting to Ask That Park Be Named for Milton Turner.

Negro citizens will meet at St. Paul's Church, Leffingwell and Lawton avenues, Wednesday evening, to recommend that the public park that is being constructed opposite the negro high school be named after J. Milton Turner.

Turner, who died in 1915, was born a slave in St. Louis County, had less than four years' school training, but was the first negro to be appointed to the United States diplomatic service, representing this country as Minister Plenipotentiary at Monrovia, Liberia, from 1871 to 1877. He and the Rev. John Love were the founders of Lincoln Institute at Jefferson City. He also set up local schools throughout this State under the patronage of interested white persons.

Judge Shields and former Judge Crews and others will speak.

HINES OUTLINES PLAN FOR A FEW BIG ROADS

Would Have Not More Than 12 Regional Systems Under Close Supervision.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Director-General Hines today explained to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee how he believed a reorganization of the railroads into a few regional corporations, operating privately under close Government supervision, might be worked out. This he advocated as the ultimate solution of the railroad problem, and to develop necessary legislation he thought a five-year continuation of the present control should be authorized.

There should be not less than six nor more than 12 of these regional operating corporations, he said, with Government representatives on the boards of directors of each. This method, Hines suggested, would result in more competition and better service than would be rendered by a single national corporation, and would give a "local touch" to the managements.

Regional consolidations would have to be directed by the Government and some Federal agency also would have to determine on plans for exchanging securities in the consolidations. All roads, including short lines, he said, would be included in the regional systems.

In response to Senators' questions, Mr. Hines explained that he believes the best solution of the railroad problem could not be worked out within 21 months, the present period of Federal control, and for this reason urged the extension. Government management during the 21 months would be of a temporary nature, he said, and would not necessarily influence the final determination.

12-YEAR-OLD GIRL DISAPPEARS

George Benich of Yuma, Colo., last night asked police to help him solve the disappearance of his 12-year-old sister, Josie Benich, from the waiting room at Union Station while he was purchasing tickets for their trip West.

He said the girl for several years had made her home with another sister, Mrs. Albert Wickerhauser at Alton, Ill., the child's parents having been separated for years. He sought to take the child to live with him for a time and visited Alton yesterday. They were going home, he said, when they changed trains at Union Station. He left the child seated on a bench while he went to purchase the tickets. She had disappeared when he returned. He was told by persons in the waiting room that a man had walked up to the child, had spoken a few words to her and had led her out of the station.

RAPID-FIRE VAUDEVILLE ON ORPHEUM STAGE

Dance, Tabloid Musical Comedy and Monologue Feature an Exceptional Bill.

Lucille Cavanagh, Queenie Williams and Julius Tannen fairly divide the honors on an exceptionally good bill at the Orpheum this week. Miss Cavanagh, always assured of a welcome here in her "old home town," does not in the least presume on this as an excuse for relaxation in her effort to please solely through the medium of her art. Her offering this season is colorful and, of course, full of action and rhythm and tunefulness. Two of her new offerings are the Indian Moon dance and the Parasol Prance. She is assisted by Wheeler Wadsworth, a pleasing singer, and Mel Craig and William B. Taylor, fiddle teaser and saxophone sobber.

Queenie Williams' contribution is a whirlwind of quick movement and quicker conversation in a musical comedy sketch called Married Via Wireless. This has a novel marine setting, in which mechanical effects are cleverly used to create the illusion that the action is taking place on the deck of a moving ship. There is a capable little company which quickly sings and dances itself into the audience's favor.

Julius Tannen is—well, he is Julius Tannen, who can say more funny things in a given time than any monologist on the stage. It's just one laugh after another in the all too short 20 minutes of his act.

Another group of favorites and sure-fire funmakers are the Lightner sisters and Newton Alexander. Their nonsense, facial contortions and close harmony singing and their jolly way of displaying their talents never seem to grow stale, although they have not materially changed their act for several seasons.

On the bill also are J. Francis Dooley and Corinne Sales in a new version of their sketch, "Will Yer, Jim?;" a tight-wire act, a "living picture" poser and Boyce Combs, billed as "an English light comedian." The adjective is well chosen.

"HAPPINESS" IS A SURE RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS

Delightful New Manners Comedy, With Laurette Taylor as Brooklyn Slavey.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

HYPOCHONDRIACS of discontent will find no exciting new panaceas in the pharmacopeia of felicity assorted by J. Hartley Manners into the drama, "Happiness," in which his admirable actress-wife, Miss Laurette Taylor, began the week at the American Theater last night. The remedies prescribed date no doubt from whatever ancient Hippocrates there was who first attempted to physic ailing souls. For men and women are recommended marriage and children; for rich and bored women, service to the poor; for idle and wealthy men, work; for poets, opportunity to make their dreams come true; for drudging girls, cheerfulness and ambition; and for those who are mortally ill with sorrow, the surcease of death. Not forgotten are spinsters of redoubtable ugliness and leanness. They are to have clothes that will tactfully inellow their angularities of skeleton.

To which estimable if time-honored recipes may be appended this one: Seekers after happiness will find it, for an evening at least, in homeopathic doses of "Happiness." For the playfright has transmuted a psychopathic treatise into a work of abundant charm, humor, sentiment and cleverness—an effectual cure for the megrims. The merits of the work itself are enhanced by a cast of such satisfying competence as is not often assembled in one production.

The story is that of Jenny Wreay, errand girl for a dressmaker in darkest Brooklyn. Her father disappeared when she was an infant, and her mother, through years of yearning for his return, has fallen into the gentle but expensive eccentricity of riding incessantly on the street cars—at 5 cents a ride—in the hope of encountering him. This extravagance is almost disastrous to Jenny's income of $6 a week.

Her "Career" Is Endangered.

Chance ordains that Jenny shall deliver a dress to Mrs. Chrystal-Pole, a wealthy and disenchanted widow, too bored to make the effort of recalling whether her unlamented spouse departed this life a year or 10 months ago. She has a friend, Philip Chandos, a languid and ennuied Bostonian, whom the courts a few hours since have emancipated from matrimony. Upon their stagnant lives Jenny blows, with her refreshing pertness and zest, like a revivifying wind. The little waif has found the treasure which all their wealth cannot bring—happiness. She defines her philosophy of contentment. It is: "Lookin' for'ard to somethin'." Her goal is a shop of her own on Fifth avenue. The spoiled lady of the hyphenated name insists that Jenny and her mother come and live with her. "So's you can have somethin' to laugh at!" inquires the keen girl.

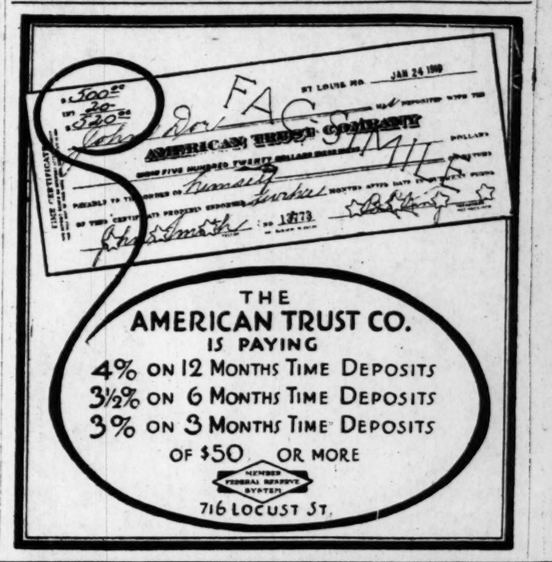

The next scene finds Jenny imprisoned in a waste of leisure, rich food and Sunday clothes. Her "career" is being ruined; she is impatient to return to the drudgery at the dressmaker's. Enters a young Irish electrician with an eternal song on his lips. No longer than a moment is he deceived into believing that the girl he finds in the apartment is a "lady." Soon the gamin and the melodious mechanic are engaged in a love scene of delicate and innocent poetry. As the play goes on, Jenny is installed in her shop through the kindness of Mrs. Chrystale-Pole; her lover, Fermoy McDonagh, has an electrical shop of his own; Chandos has got busy in lumber, and is languidly paying suit to the widow; Mrs. Wreay dies, without knowing that her husband eloped with another woman, and at the end, in a sort of tableaux, Jenny is shown happy and prosperous, with her husband and two children about her.

A slender story, if you like, and as old as the fable of the "Ugly Duckling;" one lacking almost wholly in the devices which all the pundits from Aristotle down have prescribed for dramatic construction. The law of causation is ignored; things just happen instead of being motivated. Jenny prospers because she happens to make the acquaintance of a good fairy; Fermoy is equally lucky in finding a patron in Chandos; Mrs. Chrystale-Pole is transformed in an instant, replacing a scowl with a smile and callous severity with good works. The change in Chandos takes place between the acts. Somewhere and some how he ceases to be bored, and dabbles in lumber. Characters are flung in—like the angular Miss Perkins—not because they contribute anything to the plot, but because they are piquant and entertaining in themselves. The last act, which by all the rules should be the play's climax, is little more than an animated picture.

Yet the play is delightful. This is partly due to the skill of the dialogue, for most of the action takes place in words. But it is mostly due to that element which is usually considered inferior to plot—characterization. Every part is a portrait, adroitly drawn. Jenny, her lyric lover, her mother, the three personages from the chrysocracy—all are vivid creations.

First among them, of course, is Miss Taylor's Jenny, which was written, like all of Manners' chief female parts, particularly for the glory of his wife. It is true that her figure is a bit too substantial to be accounted for by the errand girl's $6 a week; but in every other way she is the character itself—sharply intelligent, irrepressibly ambitious, full of awkwardness and slang, savagely loyal to her mother, ready to meet love half way, and yet fiercely virginal. Miss Taylor rejoices in an especially bewitching smile, which, in the play, is always a prelude to some keenly comical saying.

Percy Ames is the Bostonian Brahmin to the life; J. M. Kerrigan, formerly the mainstay of Lady Gregory's Irish Players, has only to be himself, with his indigenous brogue, to portray McDonagh; Miss Beatrice Terry is the grand lady, to the manner born, as Mrs. Chrystale-Pole; Miss Lynn Fontanne's voluble Miss Perkins is the individual bit of the play. Excellent in their parts are Alice Esden as Mrs. Wreay, Thomas Coffin Cooke as the disgusted father of Mrs. Chrystale-Pole, Sybil Innes and Opal Euard as an assistant and an applicant for work at Jenny's shop, and two lively juvenile actors, Norman Post and Ethelmary Oakland, as Jenny's children.

It's a Purchase—

A PURCHASE from two leading suit makers who specialize in suits to sell from $30 to $50. Both are leaders in bringing out and reproducing the best Paris creations at what is commonly termed "popular prices."

In their anxiety to get their styles before the women of St. Louis earlier than usual (and with an eye to a larger future business with Garland's) they each sold us 200 of their best $30, $35 and $40 Suits at an average discount of one-third.

And Here Are the Suits at $22.00

AND doesn't it sound like old, before-the-war times to hear of fine, all-wool Suits by the hundreds instead of "just a few"—and styles by the dozens instead of only "one or two"—and at $22.00 instead of $30.00 or $40.00?

And every one richly silk lined, and in styles that tells you the war is over, and that the master designers, who were in the trenches, are back in their fashion-making parlors again?

Sketched

The two Suits pictured are of fine navy serge, both are lined with plaid peau de cygne, and both are Fine Serges in Dozens of Styles—Wool Poplins in Navy, Black and the Light Shades of Tan, Fawn, Sand, Velour Checks, Light Tweeds, Shadow Plaids, Hairline Stripes, etc.

It's hard to tell which has the call in trimmings, braid or buttons. You see one model with probably three dozen small buttons. Then a Suit with as many rows of Hercules braid, then more buttons and more braid, but in every case most charmingly arranged. Then a stunning tailor-made that makes you forget both braid and buttons. So many styles and all so different, don't ask us to describe them all—SEE them—see them tomorrow.

Tailored Suits for Spring

THE first authentic fashions in Suits are being shown in the Suit Rooms. The new styles in coats, the decidedly narrow skirts and the tailoring that makes each suit distinctive may be seen in these Suits for Spring wear.

Many women are purchasing their Suits now, appreciating the value of an early selection before the Suits become picked over.

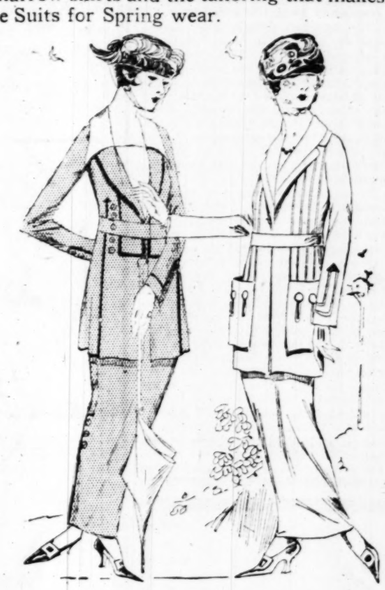

The Suits of navy blue serge, of tricotine and of mannish tweeds are in semi-tailored and belted styles. The light-colored vests used on many of the Suits relieve the severity of navy blue and black.

The Suits at $49.75

The most characteristic thing about the Suits at this price is the splendid tailoring that distinguishes each suit. Collars fit snugly to the neck, lines over the shoulders are smooth and the silk linings are carefully put in. Arrow head darts worked by hand and a generous use of braid and buttons are the trimmings on these Tailored Suits.

The materials are hairline stripes, French serges, tricotines, gabardines and wool poplins in navy blue, black and beige, in this showing of Spring Suits at $49.75.

D. S. C. FOR TAKING 3 MACHINE GUNS, KILLING 6 GERMANS

Sergt. John C. Lowe Worked His Way Into Fire of Force Holding Up Advance of His Platoon.

MAJOR FROM ILLINOIS AND MISSOURI CITED

Rolla, Mo., Man Though Wounded Day Before Led His Battalion Into Assault Without Artillery.

Sergt. John C. Lowe, 31 years old, son of Mrs. S. E. Hauck of 4136A Hartford street, has received the Distinguished Service Cross, it was officially announced today, for extraordinary heroism in action. He is credited in an official citation with killing six Germans and capturing three machine guns. He was at that time a Corporal. The official citation reads:

Corp. John C. Lowe, Company C, 354th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action near Leauwken, Belgium, Oct. 31. With three other soldiers, Corp. Lowe skillfully worked his way under heavy fire to the flank of a machine gun nest, which was holding up the advance of his platoon with enfilading fire, killed six Germans and captured three machine guns. Mrs. S. E. Hauck, mother, 4136 Hartford street, St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Hauck said today that her son had not mentioned this exploit in his letters, and that she had not heard of it until a Post-Dispatch reporter gave her the news. His sister, Mrs. O. C. Bartels of 4058 Hartford street, remarked: "We never worried about John. We knew he would come out all right. It is a surprise, though, to hear that he has been decorated, and we are all proud of him."

Lowe had been living in Long Beach, Cal., before he enlisted a year ago. He wrote recently that he expected to leave France in February, and would come to St. Louis to see his mother.

A Missouri Major and an Illinois medical officer of the same rank are also named in today's list of recipients of the D. S. C. The citations in their cases are:

Maj. J. L. Peatross, 353d Infantry.—For extraordinary heroism in action near Bantheville, France, Nov. 2. Though he had been wounded the day before, and was so weak from exposure that he could hardly talk, Maj. Peatross remained with his battalion and led it in assault on enemy machine-gun nests north of the Bois de Barricourt. Under his personal direction, without artillery support, the machine-gun nests were flanked and the day's objective reached in spite of the most determined resistance. Mrs. J. W. Williams, mother, Rolla, Mo.

Maj. Hiram E. Ross, Medical Corps, Eighteenth Infantry.—For extraordinary heroism in action near Villers-Tournelle, May 3-4. While under heavy bombardment and working in an area saturated with gas, Maj. Ross showed extreme gallantry and efficiency, in caring for the more dangerously wounded, removing his mask at times during the attack to better ascertain the extent of the wound. It was while thus acting that he was severely gassed. H. W. Ross, father, 409 Chandler street, Danville, Ill.

PENETRATED GERMAN MACHINE GUN FIRE

SERGT. JOHN C. LOWE.

GERMANY'S COLONIAL ATTITUDE OUTLINED

New Foreign Minister Demands She Have Part in Developing Africa and Asia.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Berlin says Count von Brockdorff Rantau, the new Foreign Minister, in an interview, for the first time, outlined the German official attitude toward the question of the disposal of the German colonies. He expressed bitter resentment at the Entente's tendency to regard German African colonies as war booty, and declared Germany stood ready to abide by President Wilson's desire to have her colonies, together with the colonies of France, England, Belgium and other nations, placed under international sovereignty.

"During the next few days," he said, "the lottery over the German colonies will take place in Paris. Our enemies are busy with the distribution of our dominions, which they secured by a breach of international treaties and by denying the essential interests of the white race.

Almost an Ultimatum.

"Germany cannot allow anyone to dispose of her property without her agreement. The legal reasons for the robbery perpetrated at Germany's expense we will not recognize. Germany demands to be admitted to the new order of the dominion of the white race over the tropical countries and to a distribution of their product.

"The fifth of President Wilson's 14 points indicates as an essential of world peace a free, wide, large-hearted and unprejudiced regulation of all colonial claims, in which the interest of the native population must have the same weight as the reasonable aspirations of the Governments whose legal rights in the matter of colonial sovereignty must be fixed.

"Germany believes that the principle of international control of the colonies of the European nations should be adopted. England's effort to brand the German colonial methods as intolerable must fall without any defense by us. We Germans are far from wishing to deny that misdeeds have been committed during the short lifetime of the German colonial policy. We only desire to say these misdeeds do not in the least approach the devastations of other colonizing nations committed at the beginning of their work.

Germany Demands Her Share.

"The German people show a capacity for colonizing work, especially in Asia and Africa. They have the same right as any other great people to participate in production in tropical spheres and administrations in such districts of the world. Germany demands her legitimate territorial share in the administration of the whole tropical colonial sphere unless all colonies are put under international control.

"If England, France and Belgium demand a partition of the German colonies among themselves they are abandoning the principles on which the League of Nations in the sense of President Wilson's messages can be formed. Not to talk of the breach of Congo treaties, this handing over of the German colonies to the conquerors would be a legitimatization of the right of power against which the Entente say it went to war.

"It is not in the interest of the family of nations that England, in every European war in which she takes part, earns a rich and great harvest of colonial possessions. If France gets the Cameroons and Togoland, France and Belgium together will possess the whole of Central Africa. This will not be to the advantage of the world or of the natives in these countries.

"The natural development of Central Africa is steadily toward internationalization. The cultural progress of the African race, realized under the influence of America, will have a reaction on the mother country, Africa. American influences are destined to overrun Africa. American trade and shipping have taken possession of the place left open by war-preoccupied Europe. I repeat Germany stands today with President Wilson for the internationalization of the world's colonies."

FEDERAL JUDGE FINDS THAT JEFFERSON BARRACKS IS CAMP

Ruling Against Three Saloons in Test Case Affects Dozen Others and Several Wine Gardens.

Federal Judge Thomas C. Munger of Lincoln, Neb., who has returned to the United States District Court here to aid Judge Dyer in disposing of cases based on war statutes, today fined three saloon keepers $1 and costs each for selling liquor within five miles of Jefferson Barracks.

The Court had found that Jefferson Barracks is a military camp, and, therefore, within the scope of a War Department regulation forbidding the sale of intoxicants within five miles of camp, except in incorporated towns.

The defendants were Michael E. Helmos, Mike Christ and Fritz Schweickert of St. Louis County. They were tried a month ago on a test case to fix the status of Jefferson Barracks. The defendants contended that it was a military post and not an army camp. A letter from Col. Hunter, commandant at the barracks, was read to show that the reservation was performing the functions of a camp.

A minimum fine was assessed because the defendants joined with the Government in making the test case. Fifteen licensed saloons and several wine gardens within the five-mile radius of Jefferson Barracks are affected by the ruling.

GOV. ALLEN CALLS GEN. MARCH'S CASUALTY STATEMENT EVASIVE

Charges That War Department Issued It Knowing It Would Mislead Uninformed Persons.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 4.—In a statement commenting upon the figures given out by Gen. Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, Saturday, regarding the major casualties Gov. Allen charges that the War Department "knew when it issued the statement" also charged that the War Department "knew hen it issued the statement that uninformed people would conclude that this was a full statement of the casualties."

"The War Department," says the statement, "would have us forget the thousands of maimed and crippled, a few of whom are now coming home—but many of whom are suffering in hospitals of France.

"It was attempted to divert attention from the real situation by calling attention to the fact that the dead and missing in the Thirty-fifth Division are 'only 1732' and that this division suffered less than some other divisions. Why was it not frank in saying that this division lost practically all of these 1732 in one engagement, while other divisions with which it compares the Thirty-fifth were in several heavy engagements? Why did the department neglect to mention that in addition to these 1732 more than 5000 wounded were in the casualty list of the Thirty-fifth Division?"

Gov. Allen again charged that the losses were due to lack of aerial protection, shortage of transportation and other inadequacies of machinery.

Monument to Drowned Soldiers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The American Red Cross announced yesterday an appropriation of $30,826 for the erection and maintenance of a monument on the island of Islay, Scotland, where are buried 179 American soldiers who lost their lives in the sinking of the transports Tuscania and Otranto. The memorial will be a granite obelisk about 40 feet high, bearing a bronze tablet on one of its faces and a bronze wreath given by President Wilson.

SOCIALISTS LEAD IN CHEERING WILSON IN FRENCH CHAMBER

"Long Live the League of Nations," Shouted at Reference in Speech to Proposed Association.

AUDIENCE STANDS TO HEAR ADDRESS

President Says Pershing's Words, "We Are Here," May Now Be Spoken for All Exponents of Freedom.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—President Wilson was given an unusual reception by Socialistic members of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon when he delivered an address in the Chamber, having as auditors President Poincare, the Presidents of the Chamber and the Senate, and large numbers of members of both houses of Parliament and the personnel of the French Cabinet.

When the President spoke the Socialists tried to drown the applause from the center and the right in an apparent attempt to show Mr. Wilson that his ideas were their own. When Capt. Mantoux, the official interpreter, who translated President Wilson's address, reached that part of the speech in which Mr. Wilson spoke of the society of nations, the Socialists rose, shouting "Long live the society of nations," some of them adding, "Down with war."

Poincare With Wilson.

Paul Deschanel, who opened the sitting, said of the plan for the society of nations: "Across the chasm of blood and darkness we see the light of the future. We believe that, if the Entente, instead of being formed slowly under the pressure of peril and under the necessities of the moment in the shock of battles, could have been instituted long before at The Hague, Germany never would have dared declare war upon us. We believe that the 30 states which broke relations with Germany must be the nucleus of a society of nations. We shall continue with all strength and heart to prevent a return of barbarism and to maintain our dear and illustrious friendships which shall be no less fruitful in peace than it has been in war."

The President was accompanied to the Palais Bourbon by President Poincare, who called for him at the Murat mansion. Premier Clemenceau and M. Dubost, Speaker of the Senate, also were in the party, which reached the Palais Bourbon at 5 o'clock.

American Anthem Played.

Military honors were rendered by the Republican Guard, resplendent in new uniforms and full regalia. The presidential party entered the chamber amid a fanfare of bugles and the rolling of drums. The band of the Republican Guard played the American national anthem and the "Marseillaise," those inside the chamber rising and cheering.

The chamber was tastefully decorated with French and American flags. The spacious room was packed.

President Wilson, President Poincare and M. Clemenceau and M. Dubost were given seats facing the presidential chair, which was occupied by M. Deschanel, who opened the sitting.

Mrs. Wilson, Mme. Poincare and Mme. Deschanel had seats in the presidential gallery, while the diplomatic section was filled with many distinguished personalities. Among them were David Lloyd George, British Premier; Arthur J. Balfour, British Foreign Secretary, and Secretary of State Lansing.

M. Deschanel made a short but eloquent speech of welcome, to which President Wilson replied in English, an interpreter translating it into French.

Crowd Stands for Speech.

As President Wilson rose and walked toward the Tribune, with a quick step, the Deputies, Senators and others arose and cheered for fully five minutes. The audience insisted on hearing the President's address standing.

Mmes. Poincare, Clemenceau and Dubost also stood. This seemed to embarrass President Wilson, who made gestures that the Deputies remain seated, but they shouted: "Standing! We will hear you standing!"

President Wilson turned to M. Deschanel, begging him to request that the Deputies be seated, but the President of the Chamber shrugged his shoulders as if helpless, and President Wilson began in a low voice which gained force as he proceeded.

There was a ripple of applause now and then as he was speaking, but the majority of the Deputies and Senators were unable to understand English clearly; thus the enthusiasm did not break out until the interpreter translated the speech. The Deputies and Senators gave full vent to their feelings.

The text of the President's speech follows:

"I am keenly aware of the unusual and distinguished honor you are paying me by permitting me to meet you in this place and to address you from this historic platform.

"Indeed, sir, as day has followed day and week has followed week in this hospitable land of France, I have felt the sense of comradeship ever become more and more intimate and it has seemed to me that the making of history was becoming singularly clear.

"We knew before this war began that France and America were united in affection. We knew the occasions which drew the two nations together in those years, which now seem so far away, when the world was first beginning to thrill with the impulse of human liberty when the soldiers of France came to help the struggling little republic of America to get on its feet and proclaim one of the first victories of freedom.

Allies in Arms.

"We had never forgotten that, but we did not see the full meaning of it. A hundred years and more went by and the spindles were slowly weaving the web of history. We did not see it to be complete, the whole of the design to be made plain.

"Now look what has happened! In that far-off day when France came to the assistance of America, America was fighting Great Britain. And now she is linked as closely to Great Britain as she is to France. We see now how these apparently diverging lines of history are coming together. The nations which once stood in battle array against one another are now shoulder to shoulder, fighting a common enemy.

"It was a long time before we saw that, and in the last four years something has happened that is unprecedented in the history of mankind. It is nothing less than this—that bodies of men on both sides of the sea and in all parts of the world have come to realize their comradeship in freedom.

Aid From America.

"France, in the meantime, as we have so often said, stood at the frontier of freedom. Her lines lay along the very lines that divided the home of freedom from the home of military despotism. Here was the immediate peril. Here was the constant dread. Here was the most pressing necessity of preparation, and she had constantly to ask herself this question: 'If the blow falls, who will come to our assistance?'

"And the question was answered in the most unexpected way. Her allies came to her assistance, but many more than her allies. The free people of the world came to her assistance.

"And in this way America paid her debt of gratitude to France by sending her sons to fight upon the soil of France. She did more. She assisted in drawing the forces of the world together in order that France might never again feel her isolation, in order that France might never feel that hers was a lonely peril and would never again have to ask the question who would come to her assistance.

France's Alternative.

"For the alternative is a terrible alternative for France. I do not need to point out to you that east of you in Europe the future is full of questions. Beyond the Rhine, across Germany, across Poland, across Russia, across Asia, there are questions unanswered, and they may be for the present unanswerable.

"France still stands at the frontier. France still stands in the presence of those threatening and unanswered questions—threatening because unanswered—stands waiting for the solution of matters which touch her directly and intimately and constantly, and if

Socialists Lead in Cheers for Wilson in French Chamber

...e must stand alone, what must she do? She must put upon her people a constant burden of taxation. She must undergo sacrifice that may become intolerable.

"And not only she, but the other nations of the world must do the like. They must be ready for any terrible incident of injustice. The thing is not inconceivable.

Reference to Rheims.

"I visited the other day a portion of the devastated region of France. I saw the noble city of Rheims in ruins, and I could not help saying to myself, 'Here is where the blow fell because the rulers of the world did not sooner see how to prevent it.'

"The rulers of the world have been thinking of the revelations of Governments and forgetting the revelations of peoples. They have been thinking of the maneuvers of international dealings, when what they ought to have been thinking of was the fortunes of men and women, and the safety of home and the care they should take that their people should be happy because they were safe.

"They know that the only way to do this is to make it certain that the same thing will not always happen that has happened this time, that there never shall be any doubt or waiting or surmise, that whenever France or any free people is threatened, the whole world will be ready to vindicate its liberty.

The Need of a League.

"It is for this reason, I take it, that I find such a warm and intelligent enthusiasm in France for the society of nations—France, with her keen vision, France with her prophetic vision.

"It seems to be not only the need of France, but the need of mankind. And France sees the sacrifices which are necessary for the establishment of a society of nations are not to be compared with the constant dread of another catastrophe falling on the fair cities and areas of France.

"There was a no more beautiful country. There was a no more prosperous country. There was a no more free-spirited people. All the world had admired France and none of the world grudged France her greatness and her prosperity. And it has profited us, terrible as the cost has been, to witness what has happened, to see with the physical eye what has happened because injustice was wrought.

The Tragedy of France.

"The President of the Chamber has pictured as I cannot picture the appalling sufferings, the terrible tragedy of France, but it is a tragedy which could not be repeated. As the pattern of history has disclosed itself, it has disclosed the hearts of men drawing toward one another. Comradeships have become vivid. The purpose of association has become evident.

"The nations of the world are about to consummate a brotherhood which will make it unnecessary in the future to maintain those crushing armaments which made the peoples suffer almost as much in peace as they suffered in war.

"When the soldiers of America crossed the ocean they did not bring with them merely their arms. They brought with them a very vivid conception of France. They landed upon the soil of France with quickened pulses. They knew that they had come to do a thing which the heart of America had long wished to do. When Gen. Pershing stood at the tomb of Lafayette and said: 'Lafayette, we are here!' it was as if he had said: 'Lafayette, here is the completion of the great story whose first chapter you assisted to write.'

France's Safety Assured.

"The world has seen the great plot worked out and now the people of France may rest assured that their prosperity is secure because their homes are secure, and men everywhere not only wish her safety and prosperity, but are ready to assure her that with all the force and wealth at their command they will guarantee her security and safety.

"So as we sit from day to day at the Quai d'Orsay, I think to myself we might, if we could gain an audience of the free peoples of the world, adopt the language of Gen. Pershing and say, 'Friends, men, humble women, little children, we are here; we are here as your friends, as your champions, as your representatives. We have come to work out for you a world which is fit to live in and in which all countries can enjoy the heritage of liberty for which France and America and England and Italy have paid so dear.'"

Deschanel's Greeting.

In greeting President Wilson, M. Deschanel said:

"The representatives of France are happy in offering you a respectful and affectionate welcome. Your visit evoked in our souls recollection of another memorable sojourn here—that of Benjamin Franklin on the eve of the French revolution.

"What France acclaims in you is not only that you are the chief of a free democracy, a descendant of those admirable founders of the American republic who brought across the ocean all the flower and fruit of experience in Anglo-Saxon politics, successor of Washington and Lincoln, but that you are a great citizen who on a day when duty appeared to him followed the will of his nation and threw the entire force of the new world into the service of right. It is the high conscience which, imbued with the purest maxims of morality, is trying to make them penetrate into the Governments of men and into the relations between themselves.

Guarantees Wanted.

"You wish that out of so much sorrow should come more justice. As this war is unlike any preceding war, so must this peace be unlike any preceding peace. Guarantees must be taken against the recurrence of the horrible things which have been an opprobrium to the world and which no one has stigmatized with more force than you; territorial, military, economic and financial guarantees to protect the victims of German ambition against perpetual alarms; guarantees for free peoples with efficacious sanctions to punish the crimes against the peace of the world, first, then in order to prevent them.

"In your eyes, as in ours, doubtless, the primordial condition of the foundation itself of this new world organization is a France definitely made proof against provocations and attacks. We who during 44 years have made the greatest sacrifices in order to maintain peace, know from the experience of centuries that the universe will never breathe freely so long as Germany can accumulate at our very doors the means of aggression.

Praise for Pershing.

"We will forget nothing of the bravery of your splendid youths who shed their blood with ours as 140 years ago, nor the victory of Gen. Pershing at St. Mihiel, nor the inexhaustible and exquisite charity of your women, nor your noble figure. We find blended together all the principles of that great American civilization made up of practical and enterprising genius of wisdom and idealism.

"Nothing will separate us. France loves your glorious country as a sister.

"Mr. President of the United States: We with the President of France, request you to bring to America the loving kiss of France."

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE WHEN SICK, CROSS OR FEVERISH

Hurry, mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, undigested food and bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grownups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—ADV.

25 MEN HAVING "REUNION" IN STABLE HELD UP BY 3 ROBBERS

One Report to Police Says There Was Dice Game in Progress and That $2000 Was Taken.

City detectives were assigned today to investigate a report made by the police of the Deer Street District about a holdup which occurred Sunday night in a stable behind the home of Joseph Rogles, 3918 Garfield avenue, in which, it was said, 25 men had been robbed of approximately $2000 by three highwaymen.

The first report of the robbery was made yesterday, when a resident asked Patrolman Reilly, who walks the beat around the block, if he had heard of the hold-up of a dice game in Rogles' stable.

The policeman interviewed Rogles, who explained that there was a reunion of neighbors in the Rogles stable—"a sort of party but no gambling game"—which was interrupted by three men carrying revolvers. Rogles said the intruders took $125 from him, but he did not believe they got much more than $500 from the entire party. He declined to give the names of his friends.

The police also learned that the robbers had been chased several blocks until they turned and fired upon their pursuers.

CAPT. F. L. MORRIS, WHO WENT TO FRANCE WITH PERSHING, DIES

Succumbs at Navy Hospital at Brooklyn, Parents Go to Washington for Funeral Tomorrow.

Capt. Frank Lloyd Morris, 28 years old, of the Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Morris of 5861 Plymouth avenue, died Sunday at the Brooklyn Navy Yard hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y. His parents have gone to Washington, where the funeral will be held tomorrow.

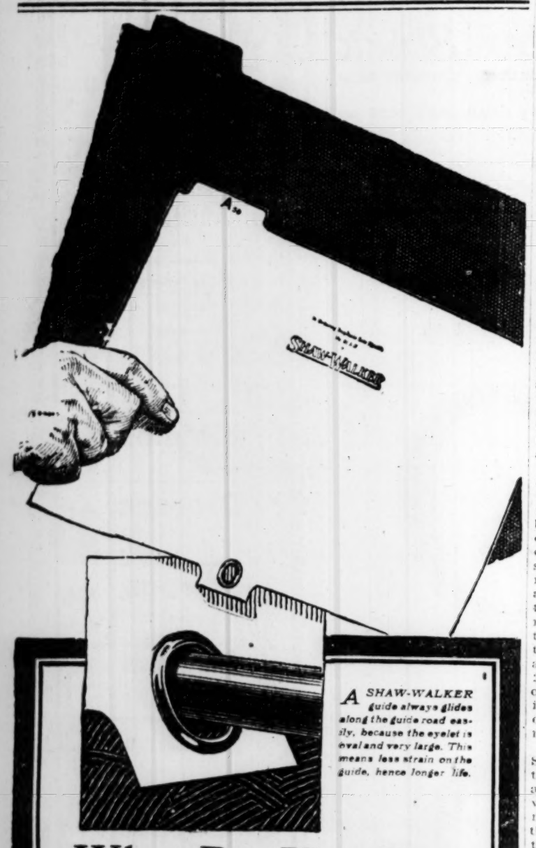

Morris, then a Lieutenant, was in the contingent that went to France with Gen. Pershing. However, he became ill prior to the battle of Chateau-Thierry, and never got back into action. When visiting here last June, he told of the prowess shown by the Marines in early encounters.

He recently had been in command of a detachment of Marines on duty at the Thirty-fifth street pier, New York, but his health gradually failed. Two brothers, John D., 23, and Brinton, 21, are with the Marines in France, John having been wounded.

COMPENSATION BILL IN DANGER OF DEFEAT IN SENATE

Organization, Mostly of Lawyers, Many of Whom Make Business of Damage Cases, Forming to Kill It.

INSURANCE COMPANIES OPPOSING MEASURE

Still Other Interests Fighting It and Indications Are Upper Body Will Kill Any Bill House Passes.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—While the House Committee on Workmen's Compensation is holding long and tedious public hearings, at which employer and employe are striving for advantage in the formation of the proposed workmen's compensation bill, an organized opposition, consisting mostly of lawyers, is being formed in the Senate to defeat any kind of a compensation measure.

As there are 22 lawyers among the 34 Senators, and, as a number of them come from districts in which much of the legal business is the bringing of damage suits for injured employes, a business which would be completely wiped out by a compensation bill, there is a growing feeling among observers of legislation, amounting now virtually to a conviction, that the Senate will not pass the measure, no matter what provisions the House may include in it. Eighteen votes are necessary in the Senate to pass a bill. In addition to the 22 lawyer Senators, there are two contractors, employers of labor, making a total of 24 whose natural tendencies would be opposed to enactment of a compensation law.

Thus, even if all the 10 remaining Senators, of whom five are farmers, two are bankers, one a druggist, one a jeweler and one a saloon keeper, were in favor of the bill, it would be necessary to get eight votes from the group of 24. Of course, some of the 24 will vote for the compensation measure, but the indications here are very strong that the number will be far short of eight, and at the same time there are indications that some of the 10 either will vote against it or will be conveniently absent when the vote is taken. An absent vote counts the same as a vote against a bill.

Controlling Influence.

While defeat of the proposed legislation asked by labor union representatives has in previous sessions of the Legislature been charged to employers in one session and to differences between labor representatives in another, the real fact is that the controlling influence against the bill has come from the damage suit lawyers.

Under the present laws the only recourse of an injured employe, if his employer does not pay him wages while he is off duty because of injury, is to employ an attorney and bring suit. Relatively few employers in the case of death of an employe will pay the widow or dependent relatives for their loss unless a suit is brought, and a judgment found by a jury. This means business for the lawyers. It virtually is the sole business of many lawyers.

Statements made at public hearings on workmen's compensation bills in other sessions of the Legislature have indicated that in such cases the lawyer frequently receives as high as 50 per cent of the judgment, in most cases at lease 40 per cent, and very rarely less than 30 per cent. Under the proposed labor compensation bill, an injured employe, or widow or other dependent relative of an employe who has been killed, need not employ an attorney. It is only necessary to appear before the Workmen's Compensation Commission, make a proper showing of the facts and be awarded an amount fixed by the law. To insure payment of the awards of the commission, employers are to be required to insure their risk in a state-managed insurance fund. Under the measure an employer or an employe can refuse to accept the compensation act as binding on him, and thus be free to go into the courts in damage cases, but an employer who so refuses is denied all the defenses on which he has relied in the past for his protection.

Lawyers in the Senate.

The lawyers in the Senate are: McKnight of Gentry, Lysaght of Buchanan, Casey of Jackson, Greene of Jackson, Young of Caldwell, Goodson of Macon, Harris of Boone, Duncan of Lincoln, McCullough of Knox, McClintic of Monroe, Livesay of Morgan, McGruder of Pettis, Senaker of Lawrence, Bronson of Christian, Bowker of Vernon, Cunningham of Shannon, Mayes of Pemiscot, Buford of Reynolds, Gardner of St. Louis County, Gray of Jasper, Kinney of St. Louis and Elder of St. Louis.

The farmers are Glick of Holt, Pickett of Grundy, Wix of Bates, Stark of Cass and Belken of Madison.

Of the other members, Brownlee of Linn is a banker, Harrison of Dunklin, a druggist, Cook of Cole a banker, Warner of St. Louis a jeweler, Depelheuer of St. Louis a contractor, Brogan of St. Louis proprietor of a saloon, and Anderson of St. Louis a banker.

It is not to be understood that all of the lawyers are damage-suit lawyers. Some of them are attorneys for corporations, which are large employers of labor, and some of them come from far rural districts where there is little manufacturing and where there are few personal damage cases in the courts. The attitude of these attorneys, whose principal business is appearing for corporations, has not clearly developed, but it is the opinion of most persons who have studied the compensation bills that, while the employers have introduced a bill, they really would prefer that no compensation law be enacted, though if there is to be one, they want their own bill, which the labor representatives declare is unfair and which they are opposing.

Insurance Company Opposition.

In addition to the active opposition of damage suit lawyers and employers, an opposition which advocates of the labor bill cannot overlook comes from the insurance companies, which are opposing it because of the provision for State managed insurance. The bill virtually would deprive the insurance companies of all liability insurance business in the State.

There seems little doubt that the House will pass a compensation bill, which will be acceptable to labor. The House committee was chosen by and with the advice of the representatives of labor organizations, and they have a champion in the person of Hugh K. Wagner of St. Louis, chairman of the committee, who introduced the labor union bill.

But no matter what kind of a bill passes the House, the recent indications are that it will be killed in the Senate, or that by a sort of mutual consent it will be kept from coming to a vote, thus to die on the calendar at the end of the session.

The House committee last night conducted a public hearing, its second, on the bill. Union labor leaders and attorneys representing employers argued for their respective bills.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive, and is sold by Judge & Dolph, Enderle Drug Stores, Johnson Bros.' Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh. —ADV.

TREATY THAT BROUGHT RUMANIA INTO WAR

Text of Agreement Signed by France, Britain, Italy and Russia on Aug. 17, 1916.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The text of a treaty signed on Aug. 17, 1916, between Rumania and the Quadruple Entente is published by the Temps. It embodies the conditions under which Rumania entered the war. Following are its various articles:

Article 1—France, Great Britain, Italy and Russia guarantee the territorial integrity of the kingdom of Rumania in the whole extent of its present frontiers.

Article 2—Rumania engages to declare war on and attack Austria-Hungary on the conditions stipulated in the accompanying military convention and also engages on the declaration of war to cease economic relations and commercial relations with the enemies of the allies.

Article 3—France, Great Britain, Italy and Russia recognize Rumania's right to annex the territories in the Austro-Hungarian monarchy stipulated by Article 4.

Article 4—This delimits these territories, and adds:

"Rumania engages not to raise fortifications in front of Belgrade in a zone to be determined later, and only to keep a necessary force in this zone for police purposes. The royal Rumanian Government engages to indemnify the Serbians of Banat who, in abandoning their properties, wish to emigrate within two years from the conclusion of peace.

Article 5—Engages Rumania and the Quadruple Entente not to make a separate peace. The Quadruple Entente engage that the aforesaid territories in the Austro-Hungarian monarchy shall be annexed by the treaty of peace.

Rights in Peace Preliminaries.

Article 6—Rumania to enjoy the same rights as the allies in the peace preliminaries and in the discussion of questions submitted to the peace congress.

Article 7—The present treaty to be kept secret until the conclusion of a general peace.

The military convention follows:

The principal of the 17 articles are:

Article 1. Rumania engages to attack Austria-Hungary on Aug. 28, 1916 (eight days after the Saloniki offensive.)

Art. 2. The Russian army will aid by vigorous action notably in Bukowina, and the Russian fleet will watch the Rumanian coasts, having the right of the use of the port of Constanza (Kustendje).

Art. 3. Russia engages to send into Dobrudga two divisions of infantry and one division of cavalry to cooperate with the Rumanian army against the Bulgarians, the allies to make an offensive at Saloniki at least eight days before Rumania enters the war.

Art. 4. Rumania to receive from the allies by way of Russia munitions and war material.

What Was Expected.

Art. 8. The necessities of war comradeship in arms being safeguarded, no contracting party is subordinated to any other.

Art. 9. The principal object of Rumanian action will be in the direction of Budapest through Transylvania. The Russian troops co-operating with the Rumanian army will be under command of the chief of the Rumanian army.

The delimitation by article four of the territories in the Austro-Hungarian monarchy which it was proposed Rumania should annex is as follows:

"The line will begin on the Pruth River at a point on the present frontier near Novosetitza; it will mount the Pruth to the frontier in Galicia at the confluence of the Pruth and the Czeremosz. It will then follow the frontier of Galicia-Bukowina and Galicia-Hungary to the point Stog. It thence follows the line separating the waters of the Tisza and Vizo, reaching the Tisza at the village of Trebusa, above which it joins the Vize.

"Thence it descends the Thalweg, Tisza to four kilometers below its junction with the Szamos River, leaving the village of Uasares Nameny to Rumania. It continues in a direction south southwest to a point six kilometers east of the town of Liebreczen. From this point it reaches the Crisch, a few kilometers below meeting its two affluents, the White Crisch and the Rapid Crisch. It then joins the Tisza at the village of Algye, north of Szegeeden, passing west of the villages of Croshaza and Bekessamso, making a small curve.

"From the Algye line it descends the Thalweg Tisza to its confluence with the Danube and thence follows the Thalweg Danube to the present frontier of Rumania."

HAS FORMER PASTOR ARRESTED

Mrs. Anna Smith, 67, of 807 South Tenth street, East St. Louis, who points with pride to her record of never having attended a circus, theater or picture show, as proof of her religious sincerity, yesterday caused the arrest of T. G. Denwoody, 37, a minister, of 805 South Tenth street, who, she said, desecrated last Sunday by trying to involve her daughter in a neighborhood quarrel by addressing objectionable language to her.

Denwoody says he has been unassigned for some time, and has been working in an iron plant. He denies Mrs. Smith's accusations, and says Mrs. Smith and her daughter quarrel with his wife and children.

THROUGH LADING BILLS FOR RIVER EXPORTING

Merchants May Get Same Credits for Foreign Shipments as When Sent by Rail.

The Government River Service out of St. Louis today became a definite asset for the cultivation of world commerce by St. Louis manufacturers and jobbers.

A. W. Mackie, manager of the service, announced that through bills of lading on exports now could be had over the barge line.

Few shipments have heretofore gone from St. Louis to foreign ports because of the necessity of billing to New Orleans and there re-billing through a forwarding agent to the port of destination. The disadvantage of this procedure was chiefly that it delayed about 12 days the assembling [illegible] negotiable at a bank.

The shipper now can take his through bill which he will receive at St. Louis to his St. Louis bank and there realize on it without delay.

The effect of through bills will be to increase traffic on the river. In illustration, the Brown Shoe Co. heretofore has chosen to ship by rail to New Orleans and thence abroad. Given the same facilities in billing over the barge line, the company now estimates that it will be able to consign half a carload of shoes a week to the river service.

BOX CAR THIEVES FIRE ON RAILROAD AGENTS AND POLICE

Men Found Taking Merchandise Disappear After Dropping a Repeating Rifle.

Police and special agents for the Terminal Railroad Association engaged in a pistol fight with between 10 and 15 boxcar thieves whom they caught looting a freight train in the yards at the foot of Bremen avenue last midnight.

When the special agents came upon the thieves they had half-emptied a box car loaded with shoes and other merchandise. Eight cases of shoes were alongside the car and two other cases had been carried a block away.

When the agents approached the thieves started shooting. The shots attracted police and a running fight through the yards resulted.

Alongside the car being looted police found a repeating rifle loaded with nine shells, which the robbers had dropped.

Police say they believe the robbers had automobiles waiting near the railroad and that they used these in getting away, as all trace of the thieves was lost.

GERMAN-AUSTRIA TO SEND NEW PLENIPOTENTIARY TO GERMANY

Foreign Minister Bauer in Vienna Predicts That Former Will Soon Be Part of Latter.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Saturday, Feb. 1.—During a manifestation here today in favor of the union of German-Austria to Germany, Otto Bauer, the Foreign Minister, said that the German Government had invited German-Austria to send a plenipotentiary to a new commission being formed in Germany to replace the old federal council. The plenipotentiary, he said, would have only a consultative voice for the present. Minister Bauer concluded:

"In a short time German-Austria will form a part of Germany, a part of the great German republic."

The crowd cheered and sang the German national anthem.

LETTER CONCERNING THE LOVE AFFAIR OF MISS PACKWOOD

Sent From Camp Merritt and Says War Worker Was Interested in Officer There.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Prosecutor Huckings of Englewood, N. J., has received a letter purporting to come from "Lieut. X." at Camp Merritt, concerning the suicide of Miss Azeele Packwood, the wealthy young motor corps worker, whose body was found on the Palisades, Jan. 26. The letter said in part:

"There are several officers in camp who could throw some light on the matter but for the publicity. It was evidently one of the officers here who first telephoned the woman friend of Miss Packwood, for we knew her by the description of her coat as soon as we read of finding the body. We feel that she was not married, but was interested in a man here who was soon to be married, but it is believed he posed more as a friend and adviser, despite her attachment."

Arleigh Pelham, who was Miss Packwood's lawyer, attached little importance to the communication.

The body was placed in the Packwood family tomb, in Trinity Cemetery, yesterday. The plot adjoins that of the Astor family. George H. Packwood Jr. of St. Louis, a brother; Mrs. S. M. Udale of Buffalo, a sister, and 20 members of the Women's Motor Corps of the Red Cross attended the service. Flowers, including a large red cross, covered the coffin.

CARELESS USE OF SOAP SPOILS THE HAIR

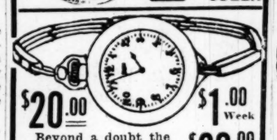

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly and it leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—ADV.

How GMC Prices Were Lowered

That GMC prices were—and could be—lowered without being reduced at the expense of quality, is one of the rewards of war production.

The war brought many hardships and many advantages; also its recompense.

It drove home the lessons of standardization and quantity production.

To meet the War Department's need for motor trucks the GMC Factory reached an enormous production—making its own trucks—GMC Trucks selected and standardized by the government—not those designed by others.

With the war-time demand at an end, it is a simple matter to turn production into commercial channels.

The same quality; the same manufacturing methods, with every advantage gained through improved facilities, are and will continue to be for the benefit of GMC customers.

Price reduction is one of the advantages gained—gained without sacrificing quality in the slightest particular.

Therefore it, too, shall be passed on to the customer.

WOMAN LOCKED IN ICE BOX BY ROBBERS

Man is Shot in Hotel Corridor by Intruder, Six Hold-Ups and Robberies.

Highwaymen, in six robberies and holdups last night, shot a man, locked a woman in an icebox in a saloon and robbed another woman waiting with her small daughter for a street car.

In a fight with a robber who held him up in a hallway on the second floor of the Atlantic Hotel, 911 Market street, at 11 o'clock, Walter Joy, 32, who lives at the hotel, was shot through the hand and left side when a revolver used by the robber was knocked from his hand and fell to the floor, discharging as it struck. The robber escaped.

Joy told the police he was about to enter his room when the man held him up. The robber took a purse containing $23.40. Joy grappled with him and knocked the revolver to the floor. The bullet went through the hand but caused only a flesh wound in the side. Joy's purse was found empty near by.

Woman Locked in Icebox.

Mrs. Marie Collins, 1827 Geyer avenue, had just stepped into a rear room in the saloon of Sol Zevy, 1804 Lafayette avenue, at 10 o'clock, when three armed men entered the front door and held up Zevy and Oliver Duffy, 5908 Shaw avenue, a customer. They compelled Mrs. Collins to line up against the wall of the saloon with the men. Then they took a wedding ring and two diamond rings from her fingers. From Zevy they took $150. They took a ring and $3 from Duffy and compelled the three to get into the icebox, where they remained for 30 minutes, until another customer came in and released them.

Mrs. Ida Schaffer, 1337 North Garrison avenue, and her daughter Lena, 9 years old, were waiting for a street car at Eighteenth and Wash streets when two armed men, wearing masks, ordered them into a hallway, and then took Mrs. Schaffer's purse containing $7.30. They told Mrs. Schaffer not to tell the police threatening to shoot her.

Beaten by Two Men.

John Putnam, 56, of 4638 Gravois avenue, was beaten on the head by two robbers who stopped him near Moore and Market streets and took $3 and his watch.

Theodore F. Schmidt, 3519A Potomac street, was held up at Potomac street and Louisiana avenue by three armed men at 7 o'clock and robbed of a bunch of keys.

Jacob J. Broz, 3939 Nebraska avenue, was robbed at 8 o'clock by two men near Ohio avenue and Miami street. They took $7 and his watch.

DE VALERA REPORTED TO HAVE ESCAPED FROM INTERNMENT

Sinn Fein Leader Taken on Report That Germans Were Plotting in Ireland.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—A report was current this morning that Prof. Edward de Valera, the Sinn Fein leader, had escaped from his place of internment in England. No confirmation of the report was obtainable up to noon.

Prof. de Valera was taken in custody last spring when the British Government interned a number of Sinn Fein leaders at a time when it was declared a plot backed by Germany was in process of incubation in Ireland. Prof. de Valera was still under defention when he was elected to Parliament in December, and when, last month, he was chosen as a Sinn Fein delegate to the peace conference.

EXHIBITION OF ART WORK BY PARISIAN CHILDREN COMING

Designs in Color Sent on Tour of Large Cities to Arrive in St. Louis Feb. 9.

An exhibit of designs in color by Parisian school children, which has been sent on a tour of large cities for several months, will arrive here Feb. 9, and will be on exhibition in the public library, Fourteenth and Olive streets, for two weeks.

The exhibit is under the auspices of the Junior Red Cross, and it is brought to St. Louis through the influence of that organization. The designs are the work of youngsters from 9 to 16 years old. The small Parisians use great variety of forms to express their artistic feelings—roosters, umbrellas, boats, cavaliers, flat irons, anything that comes within their vision. And there is a wealth of symbolically used war material, such as helmets, hats, flags, insignia, drums, croix de guerre, etc.

"13,500 People Will Be Added to the Pay Rolls in St. Louis!"—

Yale men of the older generation will remember him as the Japanese student whom President Porter treated as his own son.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. —ADV.

REAL HAIR GROWER FOUND AT LAST

New Drug Borandine Causes Big Stir Among Hair Specialists.

$1000 REWARD IF WE FAIL ON OUR GUARANTEE.

Those who have become prematurely gray or who are troubled with scalp or hair diseases, such as falling hair, dandruff, baldness, itching scalp, etc., know full well the humiliation that they cause. There is no need, however, of such conditions. These troubles can be quickly overcome by Borandine, the new drug recently discovered at the Scientific Research Laboratories at Scranton, Pa. Since its discovery a little over a year ago, Borandine has been found to contain marvelous properties for producing a new growth of hair. In subjecting it to various tests in the worst cases of baldness, dandruff, itching scalp, etc., the results obtained by the experimenting chemists were considered almost miraculous. In every case it was found that where there were any hair roots left it would produce a new and luxuriant growth of hair in from four to six weeks' time. Gray or faded hair was often restored to its natural color in from 10 to 14 days' time. In minor cases of scalp and hair diseases, such as dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp, etc., it was found that these unnatural conditions were corrected and often completely cured by two or three applications. The discovery of Borandine will without doubt put an end to the troublesome scalp and hair diseases that are becoming so common with the American people. Anyone who suffers from scalp or hair troubles should write the Scientific Research Laboratories, Dept. 37, Scranton, Pa., at once and full particulars of this new discovery will be sent you in a sealed envelope free of charge. —ADV.

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out the poisons.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.—ADV.

BOARD ENTERS FIGHT TO RAISE POLICE PAY

Republicans in House Seem Likely to Use Bill as Club for Home Rule Measure.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 4.—The Board of Police Commissioners of St. Louis last night entered actively into the fight to obtain the passage of the bill increasing the salaries of the St. Louis policemen $25 a month, the first time the board has ever done more than give its consent to the policemen to have a salary increase bill introduced.

C. Orrick Bishop, Judge Advocate of the Police Department, yesterday accompanied a committee of policemen to Jefferson City and last night appeared before the municipal corporations committee of the House as the leading advocate of the measure.

The committee heard the arguments of Bishop and members of the committee of policemen, which in the main were that the cost of living had increased greatly and that the cost of a policeman's equipment had more than doubled in two years, so that it was impossible for a man to live on a salary of $100 which policemen now receive.

Club on the Senate.

From present indications, the bill is to be used as a club on the Senate to force the Democratic majority there to pass the St. Louis home rule police bill.

A similar salary increase bill for the Kansas City police has met a like fate. It was introduced by Senator Casey of Kansas City, who is aligned with the Pendergast faction in Jackson County Democratic politics, which now has control of the police machinery under the Gardner administration.

The Republican leaders in the House are of the opinion that Casey must get his salary increase bill through or be in bad standing with the Pendergast faction. Therefore, they have decided that Casey must bring to bear influence in the Senate to give home rule to St. Louis, which would change control of the police from a Democratic Governor to a Republican Mayor, or he will lose out on his bill.

From this position, they argue that they could not consistently pass a salary increase bill for St. Louis policemen and at the same time refuse to pass one for the Kansas City police.

Plan to Hold Bills.

The present plan of the committee, of which Representative Chaney of St. Louis is chairman, is to hold both bills in the committee and give Casey an opportunity to think seriously about his interest in Democratic control of police in St. Louis.

Under the home rules, a bill can be kept in committee only 20 days, but by taking caucus action on the home rule and police bills, the Republicans would have enough votes in the House to give the committee an extension of time for reporting the bills.

Of course, it is possible to jar the bills from the committee if their advocates can find other bills in which the committee members are vitally interested and hold those bills up in the Senate. This is a system of log rolling long practiced in the Missouri Legislature and in other legislative bodies and in experienced hands it usually is successful.

NEW PLACE FOR W. F. SAUNDERS

He Will Represent American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico in U. S.

William Flewellyn Saunders, former secretary of the Missouri Council of National Defense, has been appointed representative in the United States of the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico. His office will be in the Commercial Building, Sixth and Olive streets. His duties will be to obtain the co-operation of the American firms interested in the future of Mexico.

The organization he will represent was founded during the war with the approval of the State Department at Washington. Henry P. Fletcher, United States Ambassador to Mexico, is honorary president, and S. W. Rider is active president. Frank Sanborn and Arnold Shanklin are vice presidents. The latter was a commissioner from Mexico to the World's Fair. The object of the organization is to increase trade between the United States and Mexico. Saunders will shortly tour the United States in the execution of his commission, after which he will go to Mexico City to continue his duties.

FOUR ARRESTED IN COCAINE RAIDS

Revenue Inspectors Enter Houses at 1111 and 1308 Wash Street.

Revenue inspectors raided houses at 1308 and 1111 Wash street last night after an agent, furnished with marked money, had purchased cocaine. At 1308, which is the home of Catherine Hughley, negress, they found Fred Lucas, a negro, and Bessie Mace, a white woman, of Springfield, Ill., who said she was there to buy some cocaine.

Lucas admitted having sold the agent $2 worth of cocaine. He said Mrs. Hughley was at church. In a piano in the house the inspectors found 20 packages of cocaine put up for retail sale. Lucas and the Mace woman were arrested.

At 1111 Wash street Clarence Thomas and Pearl Williams, negroes, were arrested.

CAMBON ENUMERATES SOME OF GERMANY'S ERRORS TOWARD U. S.

Put Too Much Faith in George Washington's Farewell Admonition Regarding Entangling Alliances.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—Jules Cambon, French Ambassador at Berlin up to the outbreak of the war and now a member of the French delegation to the peace conference, has written an article appearing in the Revue des Deux Mondes entitled "German Errors Concerning the United States," which will appear later as the introduction to a history of the United States written by Prof. Farrand of Yale University. M. Cambon's article says:

"Germany has made not a few fundamental errors concerning the United States. The first was to believe that no true national sentiment existed in the country, to feel that a democracy composed of elements coming from all quarters of the globe, without traditions, would be unable to constitute a homogeneous whole.

"Doubtless there were a certain number of Americans of German origin who remained faithful to the fatherland, but their number was small as compared with the bulk of the population and besides, public feeling would not have tolerated among American citizens any acknowledgment of past loyalty which would have been considered an act of treachery.

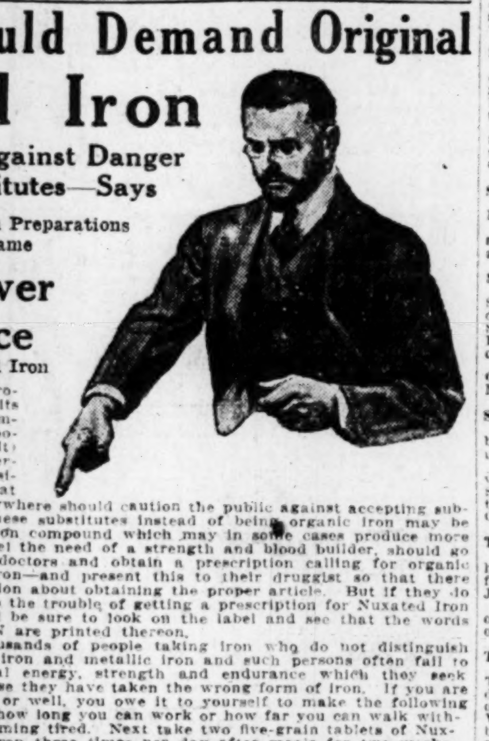

"Germany had made the mistake concerning the principles of the American foreign policy which for many years rested on Washington's farewell message in which he advised his countrymen to stay carefully out of alliances with European Powers. But what Washington wanted was to gain time for his country to reach the point where it would be the master of its future."

Another error pointed out by M. Cambon on the part of the Germans was in having overlooked "the deep idealism of the young American soul."

M. Cambon refers to the fact that although religion is not a state affair in America, most ceremonies are opened and closed with prayers. This practice, he attributes to the higher inspirations such as Seward referred to when he said during the Civil War: "There is a higher law than the Constitution itself."

"It is that higher law that Germany did not credit to America," M. Cambon concludes. "Doubtless Germany herself did not know it."

Public Should Demand Original
Nuxated Iron
Physician Warns Against Danger Of Accepting Substitutes—Says
That Ordinary Metallic Iron Preparations Cannot Possibly Give The Same Strength, Power and Endurance
As Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron

The remarkable results produced by Nuxated Iron and its widespread sale (it being estimated that over three million people annually are today using it) has led to the offering of numerous substitutes, and these physicians mentioned below say that health officials and doctors everywhere should caution the public against accepting substitutes for Nuxated Iron, as these substitutes instead of being organic iron may be nothing more than a metallic iron compound which may in some cases produce more harm than good. Those who feel the need of a strength and blood builder, should go to their family doctors and obtain a prescription calling for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and present this to their druggist so that there may be no question about obtaining the proper article. But if they do not wish to go to the trouble of getting a prescription for Nuxated Iron then they should be sure to look on the label and see that the words NUXATED IRON are printed thereon.

There are thousands of people taking iron who do not distinguish between organic iron and metallic iron and such persons often fail to obtain the vital energy, strength and endurance which they seek simply because they have taken the wrong form of iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength and see how much you have gained.

MANUFACTURER'S NOTE: The widespread publication of the above information has been suggested by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Department) New York and the Westchester County Hospital; Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, and others, so that the public may be informed on this subject and protected from the use of metallic iron under the delusion that it is Nuxated Iron or at least something as good as Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike the older, inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black or upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Enderle Drug Co., Keiffer Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Pauley Drug Stores Co., and all other druggists.—ADV.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone

HEALTH HINTS.

MRS. EVERGREEN.—Try, as a change, from vaseline to lanolin.

READER.—Clinics for free treatment (dental included): Washington University, St. Louis University. Materials not furnished.

MORRELL.—If you have treated for a year, as you say, there is something more serious the matter with you than a cold. Our advice was for a cold.

MRS. Mc.—The removal of the womb causes premature change of life; otherwise it should not seriously affect your health. Fistula is a surgical condition.

C. S. B.—Whatever has happened, you have to believe that the condition is nothing like as serious as you think it is, and you have to get hold of yourself. Get an oz. of bromidia and take 15 drops in the morning in water, 15 at noon and 20 or perhaps 30 at bedtime.

J. M. R.—The worst feature of your trouble is that it has made you anxious. Many a person with this heart disorder has lived to an old age and lived happily. But you can't be happy and worry. We do not know that the condition is definitely curable, except as Nature, given a proper chance, does many wonderful things. You should exercise moderately and intelligently. This does not mean dancing, which is always excessive, and is always done in most unsanitary conditions. Exercise in the open.

WAR TALK.

MAY.—Write War Department.

G. M.—Write War Department.

WM. McD.—6th Artillery, 1st Div.

J. L. M.—Write War Department.

E. V.—350th Infantry, 88th Div.

ADELE.—Write War Department.

E. L. S.—Write War Department.

K. T. B.—Write War Department.

KENNEDY.—311th Artillery 79th Division.

BROWN EYES.—Write War Department.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.—Write War Department.

NO NAME.—See Red Cross, Frisco Bldg., about allotments. See Employment Service, 7th and Market.

HOW MANY.—Last July "The Truth" said: St. Louis has gone to the front with nearly 57,000 men and has subscribed $34,000,000 in excess of its various war quotas.

U. S. A.—Navy and Marine stripe, V shape upside down; army V shape. Gold for overseas 6 months or more—1 stripe for each 6 months. Blue for less than 6 months overseas. Silver for this side—1 for each 6 months. Wound stripes are on right arm, red stripe on left arm. Red stripe on left arm denotes honorable discharge.

MRS. O.—In order to receive an honorable discharge a man must serve his full term of enlistment. Ordinary discharges are given when the full term of enlistment has not been served and a man is discharged upon request. With honorable discharge a man is permitted to re-enlist within 4 months and receive 4 months' bonus pay, but an ordinary discharge does not entitle him to such, but does entitle him to re-enlist.

LAW POINTS.

HOGAN.—Saloonkeeper may refuse anybody.

W. C. B.—Whatever your Liberty Bond agreement was, it should be kept.

N. Y. Z.—Wait till the new law passes. Write Public Printer or Treasury Department.

INCOME.—Wait until the new law is passed. Then Room 232, Custom House, will tell you all about it.

PATRON.—Failure to attach war stamps would not invalidate the note or security; the maker may expect trouble, but not you. Draw bank's attention to the matter.

KITTY.—Explain to bank facts of case and refuse to pay. Return books and write circumstances. If sued, appear and state your case to Judge. You are not liable under the contract.

READER.—Your mother may expect trouble; advise you make a will. Law requires only that the bond be stamped, not the coupons. You need not report income under facts you state.

B. G.—Gambling debts are recoverable by law in France, Spain, Venezuela, and, in some cases, in Germany. In Missouri there may be suing for gambling debt and the court decides the matter.

BLUE EYES.—If payments of chattel mortgage call for $25 per month you cannot tender $15 and thereby ward off foreclosure. Unless you pay as agreed, option to foreclose rests with mortgagee.

TENANT.—One month's written notice is necessary to increase rent and must take effect 1 month from next rent day; in other words, if your rent day was Sep. 1, notice should have been given before the 1st, stating increase to be effective Oc. 1; otherwise a new notice is necessary, which must be given before Oc. 1, stating increase to be effective Nov. 1.

VERY ANXIOUS.—Husband dying without a will, no children or descendants surviving, widow takes all household furniture, if not of very great value, is entitled to an allowance for meats and provisions necessary for herself for 1 year if not on hand, and in the remainder takes ½ real and personal, subject to payment of his debts, and must file declaration to take such within proper time; and doing so the other ½ passes as follows: 1-3 to sister of ½ blood and 2-3 to his mother.

INSUFFICIENT FUNDS.—As to 3d-class cities, statutes say council may provide by ordinance for sprinkling and cleaning of streets and issue special tax bills therefor; publication 1 week necessary in newspaper of such city; if majority of resident property owners shall not within 10 days file with city clerk their protest against such sprinkling or cleaning, then council has power to contract therefor and have such done; cost of such must not exceed 5c each per front foot per month. As to shed built over your line, have party remove it, or you may saw off part over the line, but if over 10 years leave it alone. As to walk at side of house, above applies as well. As to fruit trees through which dividing line runs, each landowner is entitled to ½ the fruit.

LEHOUX.—Army Pay Abroad and Here Compared: The General in the American army, which is the rank of Gen. Pershing, receives $883.33 per month, twice the pay of a German General and a little less than twice that of a French General, but less than the base pay of a General in the British army, which is $1380 a month.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Burglary and Since.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Concerning the United Railways vs. the City of St. Louis, as the controversy now going on might be termed, I beg to submit a few considerations that may help clarify the situation.

All this noise and clap-trap, those indorsements, commendations and letters of approbation of Mr. Kiel by persons more or less interested, and by employes of the city, and beneficiaries one way or another, tend to confuse the public by clouding the issues.

Let us revert to events of last year, when Mr. Kiel and the Board of Aldermen pushed through a bill validating and extending the franchises of the U. R. Co. to a period of about 1935. This was done over the protest of a representative body of citizens, who then asked that the measure be submitted to a referendum of the voters of St. Louis. This was refused by the legislative body. Then it was that the referendum petitions were circulated and signed by a sufficient number of citizens to nullify the franchise bill. This referendum had to be done in a hurry, as the bill was about to be put into operation. It was then that the U. R. Co., through its agents, stole the referendum petitions. It was a critical time for the city; there was not much time to bring in a new referendum, but it was successfully done, nevertheless. The people were confident and ready to vote, and it appeared that the Mayor and the railways company realized they were defeated. It was then that the U. R. Co. suddenly refused to accept the franchise offered them in the bill. Was it because the company and the Mayor had agreed there was an easier way out of their predicament? However that was, the Board of Aldermen repealed the bill with a great flourish and much self-congratulations, and no one in that body would own up to the fatherhood of the repealed measure. Time passed; the railways company, still more hopelessly waterlogged, bankrupt, in fact, found a way with Mr. Kiel to get what they wanted, without legislation, it seems, and so the new misdeal was put through on the quiet, not in the city hall, but in a private club.

The Mayor says he was advised by the City Counselor in those moves. Now, who is the City Counselor? He is the Mayor's appointee and his own cousin besides, I am informed. In view of the stolen referendum, can anyone doubt the duplicity of all those misdeals? Isn't it a glaring fact? C. M. H.

Cheaper Fares for High School Pupils.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While there is so much discussion at present concerning the "deal" between Mayor Kiel and the U. R., and accepting for the moment their magnanimous intentions for the welfare of citizens at large, permit me to suggest a plan that not only will assist them in showing good faith but also be beneficial to all families who are endeavoring to give a high school education to children. Many of these children live a sufficient distance from the school to necessitate them using street cars and tickets should be on sale for at least 50 rides at a rate, say, of about 3 cents each, to be honored at certain periods of the day covering the time necessary for their transportation going and coming from their respective schools; instead of the full fare of 6 cents each way. Let them think it over and have our city spoken of in a manner we all could be proud of.

A ST. LOUIS BOOSTER.

A Dangerous Precedent.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your masterly analysis of the street railway situation in the Post-Dispatch of Jan. 30 covers every point apparently except one, or possibly two. The precedent set by the Mayor's action, if not rebuked by recall and repudiated in toto by the people, will be taken advantage of by some subsequent incumbent of the office of Mayor to accomplish other deals with corporations in the future, which will be detrimental to the interests of the city beyond repair.

The other possible point which may be cited consists of the manner of procedure in entering into this iniquitous deal with an enormously overcapitalized public utility monopoly.

In raising the point, I would not for a moment intimate in the slightest that the Mayor participated in a corrupt deal, by which he profited personally, for I feel sure that he is innocent of any such crooked dealing, but I do say that if a corrupt Mayor were one of the principals in the nefarious deal just "pulled off" and which has incited the indignation of a vast majority of the people of the city, he would have proceeded in the same underhanded way in which this ugly transaction was carried into effect. I believe the Mayor was overpersuaded by some of his zealous defenders who rushed into print as soon as the deal was uncovered and the clamor arose for the application of the recall.

The Mayor should be recalled and Danes dismissed for arbitrary abuse of authority, temporarily residing in their hands, as a warning to all subsequent occupants of the offices held by these officials. "CU."

WATERWAYS AFTER THE WAR.

The representatives of Mississippi Valley interests have gathered at Washington to add cumulative emphasis to all that has been said in recent months on Congress' duty to the rivers. They ask that a problem whose importance has general acceptance shall be dealt with as a whole rather than with its separate phases. Instead of unarticulated measures they want correlated measures to be weighed according to their bearing on ends of national scope. As a substitute for effort confined to particular rivers and particular stretches of rivers, they urge unified effort aiming at a comprehensive system of internal communication—permanent plans, not mere temporizing expedients.

There may be plans and projects of local importance which would be subordinated in a view which considered only utilities and values from the standpoint of the entire scheme of waterways development, but there can be no doubt that the new principle is right and will prove potent. It will dethrone pork barrel projects and prevent money wastes. To assign rank to river undertakings according as they contribute to a common objective will have the advantage of harmonizing conflicting interests and enabling the valley to present a united front.

At last we are getting inside facts about Bolshevist Russia. Robert Minor's first article, in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, is an interview with Lenine that carries conviction. It shows that the working classes of the world have nothing to hope from the Lenine crusade of fire and blood, but everything to lose. Instead of democratization of industry, Minor found tyranny under the mask of industrial democracy, upheld by the murderous Red Guard. The other Minor articles, in coming issues of the Post-Dispatch, will be read with interest.

BAROMETER OF CIVIC PROGRESS.

Because of many reasons, most of them too obvious to be specified, the steel business has come to be universally accepted as an accurate barometer of business.

For other reasons just as obvious an accurate barometer of a community's civic spirit, its forward-looking policies, its alertness to opportunity is found in its attitude toward its utility enterprises. A city which meanspiritedly submits to having its common assets exploited and capitalized for the benefit of big cinch magnates, which permits itself to be plundered by privilege-seeking combines, is almost always a city which is disappointing in other respects to its well-wishers.

A clew to the secret of progress of such cities as Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and many more is found in the general attitude of which their utility policies are only an index. They are looking out after their own in more directions than one and not in any narrow, petty fashion, but in a large farseeing fashion. Plunderbunds are always looking for something to grab, but the citizenship that is vigilant in the matter of its public interests and compels its officials to be vigilant is invariably vigilant in the matter of its private interests.

The old question, "What's the matter with St. Louis?" is still being asked. It was long ago answered. The only thing the matter with St. Louis is just such performances and just such attitudes as those revealed on the part of its officials and some of its leading citizens in the United Railways grab. St. Louis should line itself with progressive standards and get away from the level of civic thought in the days of horse cars and 50-pound rails. It is time for St. Louis to come up on higher ground.

Point No. 1 should apply to the city hall as well as to the rest of the world: No secret agreements.

◆◆◆

FIELD OF THE GOLD-BROCADED ADJECTIVE.

Because the appearance of the meeting place far surpassed all its other features, one international conference is remembered from descriptions of its Field of the Cloth of Gold. Happily, the danger that the present conference should pass into history by the name of some of its merely extraneous and incidental circumstances rather than from its weighty achievements has now passed. For a time, however, it did look as if it might be known as the Congress of Nations and of Gold Brocaded Adjectives. Since the world began has there ever been such an interchange of intensive civilities, incandescent felicitations and burning panegyrics pronounced in the presence of, shot into the very faces of, those eulogized? First one statesman was placed on the pedestal and his merits and record were extolled by successive other statesmen in terms taxing the resources of the tongue in which each spoke. Then a second had his turn and those extolling him included the first who, as the bouquet shower proceeded, was able to balance heavy debit items in his own rather extended encomium account.

The laudation stage is ended now. They've got down to work. Let us hope that everything said in the preliminary ceremonies and welcomings about the high abilities and transcendent moral excellencies and inestimable past services of these several statesmen are all true and that all the lustrous qualities enumerated will be drawn on and made productive in their great task. For if half of what has been said about them is true, we don't have to wait for the coming of the superman. The superman is already here, a whole assembly of him, and he is engaged at Versailles in laying down new rules for the future guidance of humanity.

The "drys" are drunk with power.

WE MUST NOT OVERLOOK MEXICO.

No other city has the vital interest of St. Louis in the restoration of trade demands in Mexico described by Ambassador H. P. Fletcher, who passed through here on the way to Washington. Supply of the so-called "dammed-up" demands at home and abroad resulting from the four-year European war have entered into all calculations relating to industrial possibilities in the first years of peace.

But Mexico's accumulated needs must relatively surpass those of all other countries. Because of civil disturbances at home Mexico has the "dammed-up" demands of eight years to be met. Its railroads must be reconstructed, its rolling stock renewed, its electrical plants and establishments of many sorts must be rehabilitated. Its deficiencies in capital ought to give chances for remunerative investment. After its transportation has been reorganized many forms of manufactured products will be required in great volume.

St. Louis is a center for many of the things Mexico needs now and will need in the future. We must not go so far afield as to overlook possibilities in the Mexican trade, in which St. Louis had pre-eminence prior to 1910.

NO MAN'S LAND UNDER THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

PESTILENCE FOLLOWING WAR.

From the Chicago Daily News.

UNLESS precautionary measures are taken serious disease conditions will follow the war and scourge the world. Attention is drawn to the fact that conditions in the near east are even now especially favorable to the spread of typhus and cholera throughout the world. For example, it is reliably reported that there are 4,000,000 unburied dead in Armenia, Syria and Persia. Underfeeding prevails throughout Asia Minor.

These facts are given emphasis by Dr. G. Frank Lydston of Chicago, who sees in them a menace to Chicago. Relief work in the three countries named, he maintains, is really relief work here in the United States. We in the United States will not be free of the menace of cholera and typhus until famine and disease have been ended in the near east, he declares. Underfeeding is the parent of epidemic disease when whole populations suffer, while improper conditions of burial, whatever the causes of death, are likely to give rise to wide disaster. Dr. Lydston says truly that "it is obviously easier as well as cheaper to keep those alive who are still alive than to see that they are properly buried after death from famine or disease," that "Armenia is not a month away from Chicago," that "cholera there may mean cholera here in thirty days; there is cholera there now, and there is typhus;" that disease over there "can only be stopped by proper food, proper clothing and proper medical treatment."

Illinois people are to be given a special opportunity to aid in the promotion of this prophylactic work. Shortly a campaign is to be undertaken by the American committee for relief in the near east. Illinois is to be asked to contribute about $2,000,000 to the fund. It is apparent that practical self-interest should reenforce humanistic sentiment in the people's response to this call for succor.

LAND FOR THE SOLDIER.

From the Christian Science Monitor.

SETTLING the returned United States soldiers on the land is not altogether unlike the enumeration of chickens before the eggs are hatched. It depends largely on what the soldiers will think about it when they get back. But the idea has at least produced an interesting and practical adding up of the available acres. Between Washington and New Orleans there are 40,000,000 acres of unused land. In the United States as a whole there are some 80,000,000 acres of land, some of it swamp and some of it subject to periodical overflowing, that could be drained and reclaimed. In the West there are about 80,000,000 acres of arid land that could be irrigated. And all told there are about 228,000,000 acres of territory, most of it east of the Mississippi, which has been stripped of its forest growth by lumbering operations, and could be either reforested or used for farming. There is evidently plenty of land for the soldiers; and it will be a fine thing for everybody if it turns out that there are soldiers enough for the land, to add some millions of these now unproductive acres to the nation's agricultural wealth.

On His Arrival at St. Helena; a Roundelay.

I'm here at last!
A tragic figure to regal sway.
I'm here at last!
I apprehend I'm here to stay.
I spy no single, faintest ray
Of hope to make my "getaway."
I'm here at last!
The anchor's cast.
They have me fast!

My dream is o'er!
'Mong stars I aimed to be the sun.
My dream is o'er!
No more this world I'll try to run.
They call me now, "That exiled Hun!
The conquered beast!"—a thing men shun.
My dream is o'er!
I reign no more.
I'm sick and sore!

My wound is deep!
For me there's but disgrace and woe.
My wound is deep!
I've schemed so long to beat the foe
By flying high and diving low—
It hurts to be outgen'raled so!
My wound is deep!
The path so steep.
I mourn and weep!

The die is cast!
Ach! Ach! ach! mir thut das herz so weh.
The die is cast!
'Tis true Time's flight has brought "The day"—
Ach! nicht "Der tag"—but dark dismay
When U. S. A. had joined the fray.
The die is cast!
Misfortune's blast
Struck me at last!

I sleep not well!
I oft awake in fear and fright.
I sleep not well!
I dream—of men who fiercely fight,
Of women maimed, and worse—at night,
Of murdered babes! Ah! sick'ning sight!
I sleep not well!
Oh! Miss Cavell!
I'm doomed to hell!

Now succor me!
Mein Gott! I've been a friend to Thee.
Now succor me!
Mein Gott in Himmel! Can it be
That Thou has now forsaken me,
When I so long have favored Thee?
Now succor me!
And then—maybe(?)
I will help Thee.

My doom is sealed!
I planned to earn me world-wide fame.
My doom is sealed!
Men curse the race from whence I came;
Von Hohenzollern was my name—
'Tis now plain Bill—and now, with shame,
My doom is sealed!
My crown I yield.
I'm "ausgespielt!"

So now, goodby!
Ah! woe is me and all my house!
So now, goodby!
Our cry henceforth: "Nichts kommt heraus!"*
As Neb'chadnezzar sin did 'spouse,
With St. Helena's beasts I'll browse.
So now, goodby!
We'll meet—on high!
(His final lie.)

WE HAVE WITH US AGAIN—

Well, Mr. McAdams, after an absence from the city, it's real homelike to hear them all talking about the good old mill tax again.

I never had thought of St. Louis as a Mill Town before, but when you stop and think of the Mill Creek Valley, the Mill Tax and the Million Population Club—we kind of run after Mills, don't we?

First time I got on a street car I felt kind of vexed when I had to fork up that extra penny, but soon as I heard that they were going to pay me back a mill of it sometime, I tell you, sir, that made me feel better right away.

Then there's this absorbing question of prohibition. In other words, do your absorbing early—and I would like to propose that the next drive be made a "Personal Liberty Loan"—the proceeds to be invested in schooners and such things and in getting the Tank Corps well organized by July 1—or whenever this League of Carrie Nations is going to get together.

Some St. Louis people saw this prohibition movement coming 15 or 20 years ago, and started stocking up, and I guess they have had enough to last their lifetimes, while all those who neglected the matter and the unborn generations will have to get up another army of crusaders and go over and mix up in European affairs again.

Doesn't St. Louis look natural?

BO.

Sir—I came to the city today and stopped to admire the new arch in the station. I was amazed to see the display of apostrophes. On one side "it's fulfillment" and on the other "it's" with the apostrophe is used again. As you well know, this is absolutely incorrect. Please get your sign hunter in that territory after this, and have those apostrophes scratched out before the whole country is laughing at St. Louis. It might be well to have signs that are to be very conspicuous looked over by someone before they are placed before strangers who have a knowledge of the English language.

Plan Tentative as to German Colonies, Dillion Says, Because of Limit on Delegates' Power

Proposal Viewed as Curtailment of Sovereignty of Several Nations—Victory in Russia Reported Over Bolsheviki Force.

PARIS, Feb. 1.

PROVISIONAL was the term by which the official communique qualified the system of colonial tenure adopted on President Wilson's motion by the Peace Conference and it has been variably interpreted by the press.

Some journals construe it to mean that the arrangement can become definite only when the League of Nations becomes a workable institution and others take it to signify that its provisional character is determined by the circumstances that the mandatories have not yet been confirmed or even chosen.

My own reading of the term differs from these, and I have reason to believe that my contention has been acted upon by certain plenipotentiaries, namely, that the Powers delegated to them by the respective Governments do not extend to the cession of any part of the sovereignty of states which they represent and that the mandatory system involves sacrifice of their sovereignty. According to international theory and practice, conquered territories belong to the victorious nation which may enter into absolute possession of them or barter them with the defeated country for something else, but no third Power or body possesses the right to exercise authority over them.

No Sovereignty Ceded.

Such authority by a third state or groups of states implies the cession by the victorious nation of part of the sovereignty which it possesses in virtue of international law which has not yet been altered, and such cession can be acquiesced in only by the sovereign state itself and not by representatives delegated to conclude peace. This viewpoint does not necessarily connote an absolute refusal to accept the Wilsonian doctrine, but only a scrupulous resolve not to exceed the powers delegated by its Government. I have grounds for belief that in the case or cases where this mode of construing the mission obtains, the matter has been submitted to the central Government by the delegate or delegates, and when a reply is received it will be acted upon.

For some countries the mandatory system will differ from annexation only in form; for others also in substance. As I stated before, for Britain and her colonies there will be no perceptible change because they were always open to foreigners who were permitted to possess land, ply trade, create industries and generally take up any kind of activity that suited them and also because the principle underlying British administration is that the colonies should be governed for and when possible by their own peoples.

Work for the League.

These maxims will be enforced in the future by the league of nations. Tenure of the colonies by mandatory states will be made dependent upon their observance. This rule is admirable, suggesting a social idea based upon a moral claim of the peoples to have equality of opportunity. I understand, however, that the immigration laws prevailing in Australia will not be regarded as running counter to these maxims.

It is useless, however, to disguise the circumstance that the mandatory system meets with little favor outside the Anglo-Saxon lands and it would be interesting to ascertain the nature of the machinery by which it will be forced on the new extra European colonies of those states which prefer their own methods. The Wilson system, which will not be extended to Europe, must have as its correlate a league of nations to distribute and withdraw mandates, and, as neither Russia, Germany nor Bulgaria will be members of it, will in the first instance be a league of certain nations devoid of supernational force and immune from any one of the capital defects I have pointed out.

A Bolshevik Defeat.

I have just received an important telegram sent by M. Neratoff, who was Assistant Minister of Foreign Affairs in Russia for several years. He describes an important military victory over the Bolsheviks by Gen. Denikene, who has captured Kisloyodsk, Essentuki and Platigorsk, killed a large number of the enemy, taken many prisoners, guns, ammunition, provisions, and will proceed further into the territory of the Terek-Cossacks. Moreover his troops have captured Sarepta and generally are making more rapid headway than they expected, owing largely to the lack of discipline and leadership displayed by the Bolsheviks and the lack of military skill or authority exhibited by my former friend, the Bolsheviks' chief of the General staff.

I am not prepared to confirm or deny statements coming from Russia, but deem it my duty to record them.

I am assured that Gen. Denikene, aided by Gen. Krasnoff, is executing the plan of campaign, which will scatter the Bolshevists and bring his forces to Moscow by summer. Before operating in the direction of the Russian capital, however, he intends to join hands with the troops in Siberia and sweep the Volga basin clear of Bolshevists.

Gen. Denikene, who began the work of creating an army with barely 400 men, commands 80,000 volunteers today, besides 120,000 Don Cossacks, who are devoted to his cause. They are supplied with provisions by the population and have contracted a loan with the Rostoff branch of the state bank. Strict discipline obtains in the army, to which recruits come in steadily.

In the Don and Kuban territory the democratic spirit reigns supreme and neither there nor in the Ukraine has any trace of monarchism survived.

In Siberia the rural population is described as roughly monarchistic. The peasants inquire, not whether Russia will be governed by a Czar again, but only who will be Czar. The Siberians are republican. Denikene's adherents have about abjured the doctrines of the old regime and are in harmony with the changed circumstances, and this improvement of ideas upon political matters is only one aspect of a great general movement towards regeneration on democratic lines.

The palsied conception of reorganization as an outcome of class tyranny is said to be fast losing its hold on the peasantry. This is what those would expect from the Russian peasants' passionate longing for land and the readiness with which they followed the party that promised to bestow it. The Bolshevists early caught the bulk of the Russian people by this irresistible lure, but now that it is seen to be a mere deception, a fierce resentment against the deceivers is taking the place of acquiescence in their rule. Estates have indeed been expropriated. Landlords, Grand Dukes, churches—all have been deprived of the possessions and the soil divided among the peasants, but in Central Russia most of it is lying fallow.

The people stubbornly refuse to sow and till it and when asked the reason they answer because it is not theirs.

"They call it ours, but we have got no paper giving it. For our own plots we received a paper and paid for it, but for the new fields they gave us nothing. How then can we put money in it if others get the paper and claim the crops."

View of Land Reform.

This is the peasants' view of land reform. They cannot and will not reconcile themselves to Socialization of the soil. The passion for property in land has deeper root in the Russian peasantry than any other. Meanwhile the result of this appalling waste is that there will be an unprecedented shortage of cereals this year, followed by famine, and the Russian people will die or subsist by charity. Possibly Serbia may be able to help somewhat, as there husbandry has followed its normal course and the co-operative principle is more widely developed than any systematically applied.

Views of Two Treaties.

Both Bolshevists and anti-Bolshevists are asking in what respect the iniquitous treaty of Brest-Litovsk can be said to differ from the treaty now being prepared at Paris.

"Can we be expected," the statement says, "to respect a diplomatic instrument which carves up Russia into segments and bestows absolute independence on unfriendly peoples, who, if they quarreled with us about our only ice-free harbor, as they surely will, can blow our capital city to smithereens without even crossing the frontier? Give Finland independence and she can demand Murmansk, Kew or Karelia and if we protest she can shell Petrograd from Eno across the gulf, a distance of 14 miles.

"The conference is about to dispose in a lordly way of lands that must remain as closely allied to us geographically and every attempt to overthrow the arrangements, which nature and circumstance render inevitable will be overthrown in turn by a regenerate Russia.

"The plenipotentaries are sowing the wind and when they disperse their peoples may reap the whirlwind."

This communication I reproduce as I have received it. The only parts for which I personally vouch are famine in Central Russia this year and inextinguishable bitterness against the western Powers.

NEW HYGIENE PLAN FOR JAPAN

Tokio's Chief of Police in U. S. to Study Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Surgeon-General Rupert Blue of the Public Health Service was informed today by T. Miyadate, Superintendent of Police of Tokio, that the Japanese Government was about to start a social hygiene campaign throughout Japan, Formosa and Korea. The Police Superintendent said the ancient methods of segregation would be corrected, and that the "Yoshiwas" in the larger cities of Japan would be cleared away.

Superintendent Miyadate came to the United States to study the methods of the public health service.

The Destroying Angel

A Romance

By Louis Joseph Vance.

"OH, shut up!" Peter exploded viciously. "You make me tired—you and your bone-headed M. Ds.!"

He worked himself into a comfortable rage, damning the medical fraternity liberally for a gang of bloodthirsty assassins and threatening to commit assault and battery upon the person of Greyerson, though Whitaker did his best to make him understand the matters were what they were—irremediable.

"You won't find any higher authorities than Hartt and Bushnell," he said. "They are the court of last resort in such cases. When they hand down a decision, there's no comebacks."

"You can't make me believe that," Peter insisted. "It just can't be so. A man like you, who's always lived an * * * Why, look at your athletic record! Do you mean to tell me a fellow could hold a job as undisputed best allround man in his class for four years, and all the time be handicapped by a constitutional * * ? Oh, get out! Don't talk to me. I'm far more likely to be doing my bit beneath the daisies six months from now * * * I won't believe it!"

His big, red, generous fist described a large and inconclusive gesture of defiance.

"Well," he growled finally, "grant you this—which I don't, not for one blessed minute—what do you mean to do?"

"I don't mind telling you," said Whitaker: "I don't know. Wish I did. Up to within the last few minutes I fully intended to cut the knot with my own knife. It's not reasonable to ask a man to sit and watch himself go slowly to pieces * * *"

"No," said Stark, sitting down. "No," he admitted grudgingly, "but I'm glad you've given that up, because I'm right and all these fool doctors are wrong. You'll see. But * * * He couldn't help being serious. "But why?"

"Well," Whitaker considered slowly—"it's Alice Carstairs. You know what she's done."

"You don't mean to say you're going—that you think there's any consideration due her?"

"Don't you?" Whitaker smiled wearily. "Perhaps you're right. I don't know. We won't discuss the ethics of the situation; right or wrong, I don't mean to shadow whatever happiness she has in store for her by ostentatiously snuffing myself out just now."

Peter gulped and succeeded in saying nothing. But he stared.

"At the same time," Whitaker resumed, "I don't think I can stand it in sort of thing. I can't go round with my flesh creeping to hear the whisperings behind my back. I've got to do something—get away somewhere."

Abrupt inspiration sparked the imagination of Peter Stark, and he began to sputter with enthusiasm.

"I've got it!" he cried, jumping to his feet. "A sea trip's just the thing. Chances are, it'll turn the trick—bring you round all right-O, and prove what asses doctors are. What do you say? Are you game for a sail? The Adventuress is laid up at New Milford now, but I can have her put in commission within three days. I'll do it—we'll just light out, old man! We'll try that South Seas thing we've talked about so long. What d'you say?"

A warm light glowed in Whitaker's sunken eyes. He nodded slowly.

III.

"Mrs. Morten."

It was three in the morning before Peter Stark, having to the best of his endurance and judgment tired Whitaker out with talking, took his leave and his departure from Whitaker's bachelor rooms. He went with the misgiving; Whitaker was so weary that he would have to sleep before he could think and again realize his terror; and everything was arranged. Peter had telegraphed to have the Adventuress rushed into commission; they were to go aboard on the third day following. In the meantime, Whitaker would have the leisure in which to brood, the ending up of his affairs being granted upon to occupy him. Peter had his own affairs to look to, for that matter, but he was prepared to set them if necessary, in order that Whitaker might not be left too much to himself. * * *

Whitaker shut the hall door, when the elevator had taken Peter away, and turned back wearily into his living-room. It was 3 in the morning; his body ached with fatigue, his eyes were hot and aching in their sockets, and his mouth hot and parched with excess of smoking; yet he made no move toward his bedchamber. Insomnia was a diagnostic of his malady; a fact he hadn't mentioned to his friend. He had little wish to surrender his mind to the devils that haunt a wakeful pillow, especially now when he could feel the reaction setting in from the anodynous excitement of the last few hours. Peter Stark's whirlwind enthusiasm had temporarily swept him off his feet, and he had yielded to it, unresisting, selfish enough to want to be carried away against the wiser counsel of his intuition.

But now, alone, doubts beset him. Pacing his way across a floor littered with atlases, charts, maps and guide-books, he resumed his chair and pipe and with the aid of a copy of The Wrecker and a nightcap, strove to drug himself again with the fascination of the projected voyage. But the savour had gone out of it all. An hour before he had been able to call a potent magic, thought obliterating, by sheer force of repetition, the names, Apia, Hawaii, Tahiti, Samoa. * * * Now all their promise was an emptiness and a mockery. The book slipped unheeded from his grasp; his pipe grew cold between his teeth; his eyes burned like lamps in their deep hollows, with their steady and undeviating stare. * * *

Dawn-dusk filled the high windows with violet light before he moved.

He rose, went to the bathroom and took a bottle of choral from the medicine-closet. He wondered at the steadiness of the hand that measured out the prescribed dose—no more, no less. He wondered at the strength of will which enabled him to take no more. There was enough in the bottle to purchase him eternity.

What he took bought him three hours of oblivion. He rose at 8, ordered his breakfast up by telephone, bathed and dressed. When the tray came up, his mail came with it.

Among others there was one letter in a woman's hand which he left till the last, amusing himself by trying to guess the identity of the writer, the writing being not altogether strange to him. When at length he gave over this profitless employment, he read:

"Dear Hugh: I can call you that now, because you're Peter's dearest friend and therefore mine, and the proof of that is that I'm telling you first of all of our great happiness. Peter and I found out that we loved one another only yesterday, so we're going to be married the first of June and * * *"

Whitaker read no more. He could guess the rest, and for the moment he felt too sick a man to go through to the end. Indeed, the words were blurring and running together beneath his gaze.

After a long time he put the letter aside, absent-mindedly swallowed a cup of lukewarm coffee and rose from an otherwise untasted meal.

"That settles that, of course," he said quietly. "And it means I've got to hustle to get ahead of Peter."

He set busily about his preparations, thinking quickly while he packed. It occurred to him that he had, after all, several hours in which to catch together the loose ends of things and make an exit without leaving the businesses of his clients in a hopeless snarl; Peter Stark would sleep till 11, at least, and it would be late in the afternoon before the young man could see his fiancee and find out from her what Whitaker knew of the sacrifice Peter contemplated for friendship's sake.

Whitaker packed a hand bag with a few essentials, not forgetting the bottle of chloral. He was not yet quite sure what he meant to do after he had definitely put himself out of Peter Stark's sphere of influence, but he hadn't much doubt that the drug was destined to play a most important part in the ultimate solution, and would as readily have thought of leaving it behind as of going without a toothbrush or railway fare.

Leaving the bag in the parcels room at the Grand Central Station, he went downtown to his office and put in a busy morning. Happily, his partner, Drummond, was out of town for the day; so he was able to put his desk in order unhindered by awkward questionings. He worked expeditiously, having no callers until just before he was ready to leave. Then he was obliged to admit one who desired to make a settlement in an action brought against him by Messrs. Drummond & Whitaker. He took Whitaker's receipt for the payment in cash, leaving behind him 15 $100 notes. Whitaker regarded this circumstance as a special dispensation of Providence to save him the bother of stopping at the bank on his way uptown; drew his personal check for the right amount and left it with a memorandum under the paperweight on Drummond's desk; put a match to a shredded pile of personal correspondence in the fireplace; and caught a train at the Grand Central at 1:03.

NOT until the cars were in motion did he experience any sense of security from Peter Star'. He had been apprehensive until that moment of some unforeseen move on the part of his friend; Peter was capable of wide but sure casts of intuition on occasion, especially where his affections were touched. But now Whitaker felt free, free to abandon himself to meditative despair; and he did it, as he did most things, thoroughly. He plunged headlong into an everlasting black pit of terror. He considered the world through the eyes of a man sick unto death, and found it without health. Behind him lay his home, a city without a heart, a place of pointing fingers and poisoned tongues; before him the brief path of Fear that he must tread; his broken, sword-wide span leaping out over the Abyss. * * *

He was anything but a patient man at all times, and anything but sane in that dark hour. Cold horror crawled in his brain like a delirium—horror of himself, of his morbid flesh, of that moribund body unfit to sheathe the clean fire of life. The thought of struggling to keep animate that corrupt Self, tainted by the breath of Death, was invincibly terrible to him. All sense of human obligation disappeared from his cosmos; remained only the biting hunger for eternal peace, rest, freedom from the bondage of existence. * * *

At about 4 o'clock the train stopped to drop the dining-car. Wholly swayed by blind impulse, Whitaker got up, took his hand-bag and left the car.

On the station platform he found himself pelted by a pouring rain. He had left Town in a sodden drizzle, dull and dismal enough in all conscience; here was a downpour out of a sky three shades lighter than India ink—a steadfast, grim rain that sluiced the streets like a gigantic fire-hose, brimming the gutters with boiling, muddy torrents.

The last to leave the train, he found himself without a choice of conveyances; but one remained at the edge of the platform, an aged and decrepit four-wheeler whose patriarchal driver upon the box might have been Death himself masquerading in dripping black oilskins. To Whitaker's inquiry he recommended the C'mercial House. Whitaker agreed and imprisoned himself in the body of the vehicle, sitting on stained and faded, threadbare cushions, in company with two distinct odors, of dark and musty uphtolstery and of stale tuberoses. As they rocked and crawled away, the blind windows wept unceasingly, and unceasingly the rain drummed the long roll on the roof.

The Sandman Story For Tonight

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

The Princess' Choice.

ONCE upon a time there was a beautiful Princess whose father insisted that she must wed at once.

"I am growing old and cannot live much longer, so you must take a wise and good husband to help you rule this kingdom," he said.

Now there were two suitors for her hand. One Prince Hugo, who was believed to be rich and very grand, and the other a poor Prince called Ruby. Hugo rode about clothed in gorgeous raiment and acting as if he owned the earth, so all thought him immensely wealthy. Ruby, who was plainly dressed, was simple and kind in his manners and gained the good will of all.

"I know what I will do," said the Princess to herself one evening. "I must learn just what these two Princes really are at heart, and to do that I must see them at home. I will disguise myself and go to visit their homes in the rags of a beggar. This will show what they are like."

So the Princess set out one night alone on a swift horse, which rapidly bore her to the gates of Prince Ruby's home. It was a quaint, small old castle, nestling in beautiful hills. She dressed herself in an old gown she had brought, then limped up to the door.

"I am a poor woman and crave shelter for the night," she said to the Prince's mother, who answered the knock.

"Certainly; come right in and sit by the fire while I warm you some soup," said the mother. The Princess entered and enjoyed the bright flames and the hot broth. Presently in came the Prince.

"A storm is coming up over the mountain," said Ruby to his mother, "so do not let this poor woman venture out tonight. Make her a bed in the spare chamber and see that she has a warm breakfast before she leaves in the morning."

After a hearty meal the next morning the Princess set out from the castle with a nice lunch which the kind mother had fixed. But as soon as she was out of sight, she mounted her fleet horse and rode in haste to the kingdom of Prince Hugo.

HUGO'S mother welcomed her and told her to sit by the fire.

"I am afraid I give you any food," she said, "for my son, Prince Hugo, has a bad temper and will not allow me to dispose of anything to eat. But here is a crust of bread I can let you have if you will hide it if he comes in."

Presently in came Hugo in an angry mood. "Who is that woman in the corner?" he shouted at his mother, who trembled at his tones.

"She is a poor, worthy soul who asks shelter for the night," replied his mother.

"Well, kick her out of the house. I am not in the habit of feeding the beggars of the land," replied the Prince.

"Here, get out," and he shook the Princess roughly by the shoulder, tearing her ragged gown into worse shape. On the floor lay a withered rosebud. She picked it up and hastily fled down the path to the gate, where stood her faithful steed waiting.

Then fast and fleet she rode over hill and dale till she reached her own home. That very day she sent a herald to summon the two Princes to her castle.

"I have made my choice, father," she said. "And I will let you know when the two Princes come tomorrow."

The next noon the great hall was ablaze with the fine assemblage of the King and court. The Princess sat in a purple velvet divan, and up to her feet came Hugo and Ruby.

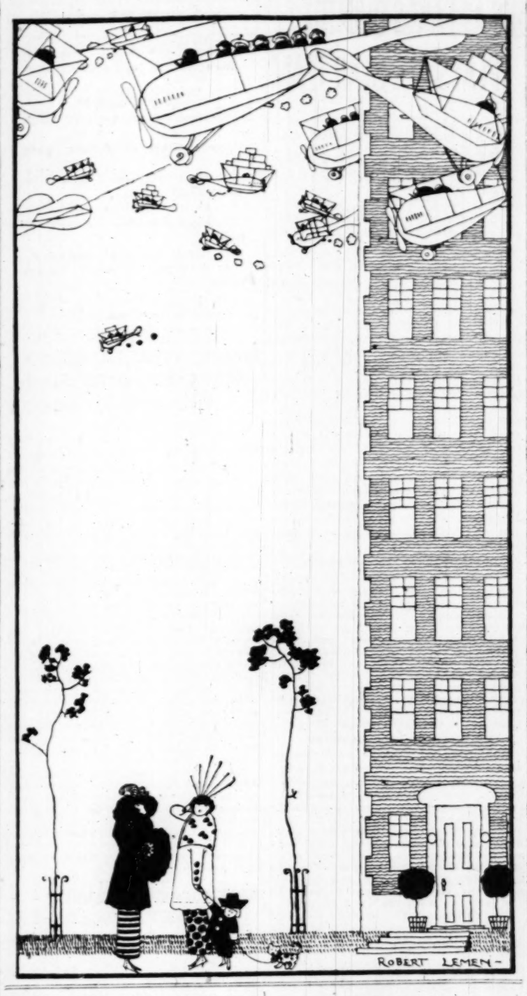

"I know you each now," she said, lifting up the ragged dress which she had worn when disguised as a beggar. "I am the poor woman whom you treated so kindly, Ruby. I am that poor woman whom you turned out of doors, Hugo. You remember this dress, and this rose I picked from the floor. Hugo, you leave this country at once, never to return."

The next night the castle was ablaze with light for hours. Bands played in the rose gardens, and the poor were fed at the gates, for it was the wedding feast of the Princess and kind-hearted Prince Ruby.

The Universal Cross.

I SAID that the Russian women were all meek in appearance. There was one exception. A woman of sharp, eager face, as of a zealot, with a gray shawl over her head, seeing me standing near the door, approached me and said in rather sharp voice, speaking in French, "Quelle croix?" (What cross?) I did not at first understand the import of her inquiry, though I realized that she was putting to me an all-important question. "Quelle croix? Grecque ou Latine" (What cross do you make, that of the Greek Church or of the Latin Church?—that is, from left to right or from right to left)? My answer was "La croix rouge" (the Red Cross). And that is the answer which the Red Cross is to make to people of every race and sect. It is the sign of mercy universal, the sign not of Christian faith, but of human brotherhood. America has given the Red Cross its widest scope and meaning and illustration. And here in Palestine, of all lands in the world, where religious partisanship is most bitter, where the world's alms have been asked for the sake of Christ, Mohammed and Abraham—here above all places is the Red Cross needed to help unite all and to illustrate the best methods of this universal mercy.—John Finley in Asia Magazine.

Hints to Women Voters.

NOW that women have power to vote, their men folk, on the strength of hundreds of years' start in the study of politics, are giving them lots of good advice. Among their valuable hints are the following:

Beware of Bawlisheviks! They'll borrow anybody's sealskin coat at the point of the pistol.

Never vote for a candidate who parts his hair in the middle. He is obviously unable to take one side or the other.

If your candidate asks you to give him a mandate, ask him: "What about a womandate?"

If you attend a political meeting as a heckler, heckle the speaker the same way as you would your husband. That'll get him all tied up. —New York World.

Training Corps to Continue.

Women will be trained in Government cantonments, according to plans which the executors of the United States Training Corps for Women are making. The corps, organized for women war workers in Washington, under the direction of Miss Susanna Cocroft of Chicago, has been turned into a permanent organization for building up women physically and fitting them for the places they are taking in many lines of work.

MAXIMS FOR MATRIMONY

"If You Must Tell All, Don't Tell It to Your Husband."

By NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

THE elephant has a delightful little habit of hiding behind a palm tree, whenever an enemy approaches.

Just how much an elephant may be hidden by a palm tree I leave it to the reader to determine. Personally, I believe that some prehistoric lady mastodon originated the custom, after listening to a lecture on how to preserve her mystery and keep her husband's love. I ask the reader also to decide just how much mystery may be preserved in marriage.

Anyhow, nobody will deny that the palm tree habit adds to the interest of the elephant. Every garden of love should have its palm tree and whenever a woman finds herself in the mood for turning out each nook and corner of her heart and brain for a man's inspection, she should seek its sheltering shade and spend the time in silence and meditation instead.

If she must tell all—and which one of us has not the ghastly habit of self-analysis?—let her tell it to herself. She will be sure then, of not boring any one.

I have sometimes wondered how many of us would bother with being in love if it were not for the joys of taking our emotions apart and putting them together again. But men do not seem to derive the same satisfaction from the discussion and dissection of their emotions. To be sure every man likes to have a woman tell him once just what she felt and thought when she met his eyes for the first time and all about the blinding glory of his first kiss, etc., for every man's favorite fairy tale is "Pygmalion and Galatea." Yes, though he marry the daughter of the regiment, he prefers to think he is bringing a statue to life. But when the statue begins to talk she soon talks herself out of his imagination and by her mania for explanation deprives herself of love's greatest ally, intellectual curiosity.

"Women," said Oscar Wilde, "are sphinxes without riddles." It is never until the sphinx begins to talk that a man is led to make that cynical discovery.

So, if you must discuss how and why and when and where you began to love him, raise the maid's wages and tell her about it, pay a fortune-teller $5 to listen to you, or turn on both faucets in the bathtub and sing it to yourself.

Do anything, everything but choke a man's imagination to death with petty details. If the worst comes to the worst, keep a diary, though I shall have my opinion of you if you do.

Sometimes men are accused of preferring stupid women—I am always amused when I hear feminine discussions about whether men prefer brains or beauty, slender or fat woman, blondes or brunettes. In the bright lexicon of man's emotions there is no such word as "or." Men never debate such matters beyond certain coarse commonplaces, for they know that the type of woman man prefers is every type of woman—the brilliant, the dull, the slender, the obese, the blonde, the brunette, the red-haired, the albino. All are charming, admirable in their own way—until they begin to explain themselves.

What is there about a woman on trial for murder that makes her so fascinating to men no jury will find her guilty? Her mystery. The fact that even when she takes the stand in her own defense the objections of the prosecuting attorney or her own counsel prevent her from telling all.

Take the case of Mona Lisa, who has smiled her way across four centuries. A homely woman, if ever there was one. Yet because of a sad, jaded, crooked quirk of the lips, she has engaged the imagination of every man from Da Vinci, who immortalized her in paint; Pater and Gautier, who eternalized her in literature, to the Italian thief who eloped with her from the Louvre a few years ago. Suppose Mona Lisa could talk? Suppose she could explain that smile?

The charm of the women other women so describe depends very often on the fact that she is too lazy or too indifferent to explain herself. Hence men endow her with mystical merits she is too stolid to deny.

But no woman who marries successfully in our age can be considered altogether dull. For she has triumphed over many obstacles and much competition.

Anyone, no matter how limited, can marry a man under 25 or over 60. But the girl who succeeds in being led to the altar by a desirable male between those ages has to be a master of tactics and strategy. I do not mean to assert that she is working out her own noblest destiny, necessarily; merely that, however empty her head may appear, she must be in reality a highly skilled fisher of men. And you have to remember that a good fisherman never talks much, even after the haul is all assorted and ready for market.

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

By HELEN ROWLAND.

"ONCE upon a time every little girl planned to grow up and marry Prince Charming and make a happy home for him. Now she plans to grow up and be a moving-picture "vampire" and lure him away from his happy home.

Many a good wife has made the fatal mistake of trying to tie her husband to her by her kitchen apron strings instead of his heart strings.

The worst "danger" that confronts the modern business girl is not so often the temptation to listen to the rich man who offers her a spin in his motor car as the temptation to listen to the poor young man (making less money than she is) who offers her a wedding ring and a kitchenette apartment.

The average man takes all the natural taste out of his food by covering it with ready-made sauces, and all the personality out of a woman by covering her with his ready-made ideals.

Prohibition may put an end to the spirituous "jag," but the spiritual or sentimental "jag" will keep right on going to the head, exalting the spirit, making you dizzy, filling you with ecstacy and causing you to act foolish. And what else is a "jag," after all?

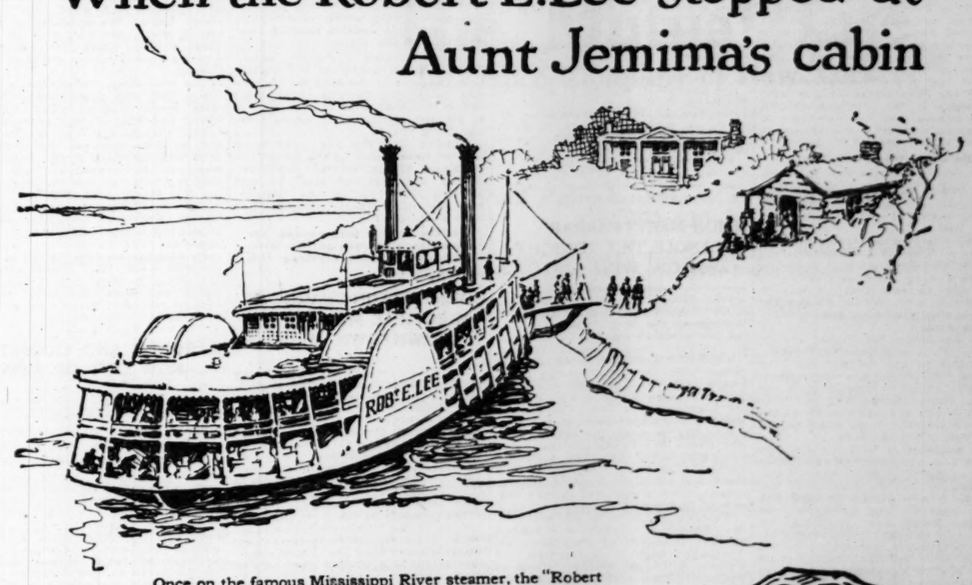

The bitterest moment of a woman's life is that in which she discovers that the man to whose "higher nature" she has been striving to appeal never had such a thing.

Heaven is NOT a mythical place. It can be found right down in the heart of the man who has found the work he loves and the woman he loves.

A young girl sighs for a lover who will be perfectly devoted to her, but a widow is quite satisfied to find one who won't be devoted to anybody else. Thus, even in the job of matrimony, "previous experience" helps a lot.

An ideal lover is one with such a keen dramatic instinct that he can convince himself of his sincerity—even when he knows he's lying.

When the "Robert E. Lee" stopped at Aunt Jemima's cabin

Once on the famous Mississippi River steamer, the "Robert E. Lee," an ex-general of the Confederate Army was traveling. Passing Aunt Jemima's cabin on the shore he told some Northern travelers of the many times he'd eaten her delicious pancakes.

"The boat stops here, let's get off and have some now," they all urged. And so they did. And thus the fame of Aunt Jemima's Pancakes reached the North.

With Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour, made from Aunt Jemima's own recipe, you can have the same wonderful pancakes today—pancakes just as golden-brown, fragrant and tender. Everything to make these pancakes is already in the Aunt Jemima Flour—milk and all. You have only to add the water. And, oh, how good they taste!

For variety serve Aunt Jemima Buckwheat Cakes. You'll say they are the best buckwheat cakes you ever tasted! Get a package of each from your grocer today—Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour in the red package, Aunt Jemima Buckwheat Flour in the yellow package.

In the Matter of Acquiring a "Receiver," the Browns Seem to Be One Up on the U. R.

BROWNS PURCHASE WALTER MAYER OF CHAMPION RED SOX

No Players Involved in Deal Which Improves Locals' Catching Staff.

TERMS NOT ANNOUNCED

Bob Quinn, However, Says Ball Paid Big Price to Obtain Player.

President Phil Ball of the Browns yesterday parted company with a good-sized portion of his bank account (exact amount not divulged), in return for which he received Walter Mayer, Red Sox catcher and considered the mainstay of Harry Frazee's receiving department in the 1918 world's series. Business Manager Bob Quinn last night received a telegram from Frazee in which the latter accepted the proposition, and Mayer is now the property of the local club.

A straight cash consideration brings Mayer here. There are no players involved. The groundwork of the transaction was laid at the joint meeting of the major leagues in New York last month, but Frazee at the time demanded players and not cash. Ball and Quinn, however, by raising the ante considerably, persuaded the Red Sox magnate to part with Mayer.

History of Career.

Contrary to the prevailing belief, the newcomer is not a youngster. The record books shows him to be 29 years of age and he has been in professional baseball continuously since 1910. Mayer was born in Cincinnati and played semi-pro baseball there for several years. His first professional engagement was with the Paris (Ky.) team in the Blue Grass League.

In 1911, he graduated to the Minneapolis club in the American Association. In the fall of that year he broke into the major leagues, the White Sox having purchased him from Minneapolis. It was then that Mayer experienced his first setback in his effort to make good in the big leagues, for in order to earn a regular's job, he was forced to beat out Ray Schalk, then going at top speed and considered one of the most phenomenal young catchers ever turned out of the minors.

The White Sox sent Mayer to Birmingham in the Southern League and he remained there in 1912 and 1913. In the fall of the latter year he was recalled, remaining with the Sox, where he did bench and relief duty until 1916, when he was shipped along to Milwaukee.

The Sox recalled him in the same year, however, but once again he was shunted to the minors, this time to St. Paul. Having no further need for him, the White Sox released him outright to Providence in 1917 and it was from this club that the Red Sox purchased him. He has been with the world's champions ever since.

Mayer as always been better than an average hitter, as catchers go. In his first year in professional company he led the Blue Grass League with an average of .352. He has hit well in the minors with the exception of one season and with Providence in 1917, he batted .291 for 79 games.

Did Great Work Last Year.

Last season was the first in which Mayer really came into his own in the major leagues. With Sam Agnew he shared the catching burdens of the Red Sox and Harry Frazee asserts he was no small factor in landing the A. L. pennant and the world's championship for his club. To make his work even more impressive, it need only be said that he was in competition with Wallie Schang for the first string catching job throughout the season.

The acquisition of Mayer rounds out one of the most formidable catching staffs in the league for the Browns. If Severeid returns from the Tank Corps in time to start the season, Jimmy Burke will find himself in much the same predicament as the Cardinals, i. e., possessed of three first string catchers.

The supposition is, however, that Mayer was purchased because Severeid's return is doubtful and a capable assistant for Les Nunamaker was needed. In announcing the deal, Bob Quinn said he had gotten a man Manager Burke very much desired. Quinn will now direct his efforts toward obtaining a shortstop. He has several deals in sight, but none of them have progressed beyond the tentative stage.

YALE HAS 250 SWIMMERS OUT FOR JOBS THIS YEAR

Yale has more than 250 candidates out for swimming this year. The new Yale policy, compelling every student to take part in some form of athletic activity, is largely responsible for this large increase over previous years. The varsity schedule, which calls for seven meets, all in the Carnegie Pool, was announced Tuesday.

HARRY VARDON SOUGHT AS 'PRO' AT BRAE BRUN

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—The Brae Burn Country Club has just cabled to Harry Vardon, now in England, making him an inviting offer to become the club's professional golfer. The feeling prevails among the most influential members that the offer may be accepted.

SWEDISH CHAMPION WINS

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Feb. 4.—It required just 13 minutes for Harold Christeianson, the Swedish champion wrestler, to win his match here last night from Pat Conley of Butte, Mont., the Irish champion. Christeanson won the first fall with a body hold and the second with a head scissors.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Recipe for Buying a Player.

TAKE your life and your bank roll in one hand, your franchise in the other, holding in reserve your best six baseball players, then approach a baseball magnate of your acquaintance, in deep humility, if you want to interest him in a trade, in these parlous times. For ball players and eggs come high, now.

For a Sisler, a first-class pitcher and $10,000, a magnate might consider a trade for a substitute bat boy; but in order to get a big league player the unfortunate who needs this commodity must do everything but root up the grand stand and throw it into the deal.

The Browns have been desperately trying to strengthen this year. They needed two or three good players, to fill out a championship hand; whether they will get them is not even a problem—it is a cinch they will NOT! The only big deal possible must be for players, not cash; and the Browns can't afford to lose those they already have.

* * *

How It Works Out.

BOB QUINN approached a club owner with a view of getting a shortstop of national repute and world's series reputation. He offered the pick of the infield, Sisler and Gedeon excepted, a first-string pitcher, a first-string outfielder and a choice of another player, in addition to cash. The club owner said: "For $10,000 more I'll think it over."

In the deal just concluded with Boston for Catcher Mayer the Browns had to give up heavily in cash; and Mayer was not even a first-string man.

It's the case generally—clubs are cutting down to a low limit and have only second-class material to release. Championship talent can be obtained only by that club which has equally good material to exchange.

In Re Sword of Damocles.

THE sword has not yet fallen on the neck of Harry Frazee, as Ban Johnson promised. It is now freely predicted that the suspended decapitator will not fall, this year, owing to unforeseen circumstances. There is still time for the Czar to railroad his beloved enemy out of the American League realm; but a miscarriage of about $1,500,000 simoleons seems to have held up Frazee's transportation.

Frazee obligated himself to about $900,000 in the purchase of the Red Sox. It was presumed that he would be unable to carry the club when the death of his backer Nelson Lambert, occurred. Somehow, somewhere this appears to have proved a fallacy and the baseballshevik "limelighter" will continue to offend that feline filament, Mr. Connie Mack, et al., for another season.

Nobody seems ready to turn over $1,500,000 for $900,000 worth of property, just at this time, even in the world of frenzied baseball.

* * *

You Can't Blame Frazee.

FRAZEE is right to hang on, to the last tooth and nail. He has the "paper" championship team of the coming season, and don't let anyone take your mind away from his outlook. Frazee's team has been strengthened over that of last year, with Vitt and Barry in the infield, and additional outfielders and pitchers over those that won the title last year.

Greater efficiency may be expected from the White Sox this year; Cleveland looks good, while the Yankees have gained some notable players—IF they come back to their best from. But nothing has happened to any of the other clubs to cause Boston any uneasiness. On paper, the Red Sox still have the best club in the country.

How to Beat English Rules.

JOE LYNCH, the sturdy little New York fighter who won a near-British title fight at the National Sporting Club of London, last night, in a 20-round engagement, has solved the English boxing rules. Joe's system is to beat the other fellow so badly that there can't be any argument about the matter. A knockout is the only other sure way for an American to win a decision in Britain, where they score credits and draw penalities under a baffling construction of the rules.

Lynch defeated a fighter named Tommy Noble, holder of a Lonsdale belt. Reports of the bout say that he was outpointed for the first nine rounds, but that after that he won as he pleased, taking every round from his tiring foe.

Reading between the lines it is easy to discern that Lynch lacked the flashiness of his "straight left," opponent, but that the stuff he was handing Noble during the "infighting" did the greater damage and wore down his foe.

If the fight is long enough, the American style will get the British every time, everything else being equal.

25-Round Fight Bill Introduced Today in Nevada Legislature

CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 4.—An amendment to the Nevada boxing law, which would allow 25-round contests, was introduced in the Assembly of the Nevada Legislature yesterday. This is the first step on the part of the State to bring the Willard-Dempsey fight to Reno.

SIMON MEETS FARRAR IN ANGLE TILT TONIGHT; ZAMZOW WINS ANOTHER

John Simon, the Rex veteran, and Elmer Farrar of Arata's, will meet tonight at the Rex Parlors in the feature game of the week's schedule in the City Three-Cushion League. Neither has sustained defeat as yet. Simon holds the high average for a single game, that of 1, for the tournament, while Farrar, with 8, has the high run thus far. The contest will begin promptly at 8 p. m.

Bert Hoffman of the Grand, substituting for C. A. Allen, was beaten by Eddie Zamzow of Corse's Parlors in a contest on the latter's table last night, 50 to 50, in 103 innings. Each player had a high run of 4.

Through an error in the schedule, Sam Smoke of Arata's was booked against Hellmich of Peterson's on Thursday night. Butterfield, of Corse's, will play Smoke instead of Hellmich. This will be Smoke's last game of the tournament.

TROEH CAPTURES HONORS IN TRAPSHOOT TOURNEY

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 4.—Frank M. Troeh of Vancouver, Wash., leading amateur trapshooter of the United States during 1918, captured top honors in the first day's shooting program of the Sunny South here yesterday, tying Harry A. Murrelle, local professional, by breaking 148 in 150.

C. L. Dupuy of Dallas, Tex., and William Heer of Guthrie, Ok., tied for place position, each netting 146 in 150.

A. P. Smith of Beasley, Tex., captured the 50 target doubles event with 48 in 50, and George Nicoll of Kansas City, Mo., was second with 47.

Approximately 190 shooters faced the traps, but scores were not exceptional, because of the dark day and intermittent showers.

The proceeds of the meet this year will go to the "Welcome Home fund" for St. Louis regiments overseas. Last season's event drew the largest crowd that attended a similar meet here in many years.

GREAT LAKES QUINTET PLAYS ALL-STAR TEAM

King's Highway Presbyterian Quintet Includes Leading "Prep" School Basketers.

In an effort to return to its camp with a record of two victories in three contests, the Twelfth Regiment team of Great Lakes will meet the King's highway Presbyterian Church quint at the church gymnasium, King's highway and Cabanne avenue, at 8:45 o'clock tonight. The game will be preceded by a bloomer girl battle in which the King's highway and Maplewood girls meet at 8 p. m.

In opposing the Sunday School League players, the Bluejackets may meet competition more in their general line of play. Yesterday afternoon when they defeated the St. Louis University quintet, 36 to 8, the visitors met a team which much needed practice and appeared to be in miserable physical condition. When it was defeated by Washington, Saturday night, the Public Works players met a five which was loath to engage in rough-house tactics.

Local Quintet Seems Strong.

The King's Highway Presbyterian five is made up of players who are in splendid shape and of the type which will mix when the opposition calls for mixing. Its personnel includes Bob Larmore, Central High and Allen Spencer, Webster High, forward; Ted Schuster, Soldan High, center; Eddie Nelson, Central, and Sidney Widdicombe, Central, guards. Each of these players was recognized as possessing unusual ability when performing in the High School League.

Billikens in Poor Condition.

Yesterday afternoon's performance was simply a poor exhibition between an untrained team and an uncoached team. The Billikens, because of recent examinations, have been unable to get in any practice during the past 10 days. They were badly out of condition and the strain of the wild-and-woolly jamboree told on them after the first 10 minutes of play. In the very early stage they played the visitors even, but then later they could not keep up with the hardy sailors.

The Lakes team is indeed very fortunate that the officiating in both the Washington and St. Louis games was below standard. More than half of the fouls committed were uncalled.

The opening game yesterday between St. Louis U. High and Kenrick High furnished the thrills of the afternoon. The score was tied, 20—20, at the close of play; and a 5-minute extension of time was necessitated. The final score was 22 to 21, Kenrick winning.

MISS BJURSTEDT EXPECTED TO REACH FINALS ROUND IN WOMEN'S NET EVENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—With an array of women tennis players, second only to a national championship, the annual women's invitation tournament started yesterday on the indoor courts of the Heights Casino in Brooklyn.

The first round eliminated many players in the upper and lower halves of the draw and when the third round begins the outstanding players in the upper half will be Miss Eleanor Sears, Miss Molla Bjustedt, Mrs. De Forest Candee and Miss Clair Cassell.

The prominent winners in the lower half are Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Marie Wagner, Miss Rawson Wood and Miss Helene Pollack.

The tournament last season was won by Miss Bjurstedt, who defeated Miss Eleanor Goss in the finals. It would not be surprising if this same pair fought it out for the final honors this season also.

The two Boston entries, Mrs. George Wightman and Miss Marion Zindersein, both defaulted. Miss Bjurstedt was on hand to play in spite of a bad cold contracted in Boston last week. Her illness affected her game in Boston last Saturday and it was feared she would be unable to compete in the Casino tournament.

GARDNER AND OUIMET NOW OUT OF SERVICE

One after another prominent golfers are receiving their discharges from the army and navy. Only the other day, Lieut. Francis Ouimet was mustered out, while word now comes that Lieut. Robert Gardner, national amateur champion in 1909 and 1915, and runner up in 1916 at Merion when Charles Evans Jr. was successful, has doffed his khaki and resumed his prewar pursuits. His regiment, the 288th Field Artillery, trained at Comp Dodge and went overseas last year. Gardner received his discharge at Camp Dodge.

That army life agreed with the former Yale golfer is shown by the fact that he re-enters civilian life at his normal weight of 160 pounds. Gardner is the last national champion in the service. He has announced his intention of competing in the amateur event at the Oakmont Country Club next season, and he also says that he will participate in practically every tournament that comes along, in order to make up for time lost.

PUBLIC SCHOOL FIVES OPEN CAMPAIGN TODAY

The opening games in the second annual championship race of the Grammar School Basket Ball League will be played this afternoon at the Glasgow School gymnasium, with a doubleheader being scheduled. In the opener at 4:15 o'clock, Glasgow will play Franklin, while Henry and Jefferson mix starting at 4:45 o'clock. Gilcher Neeb has been named to referee.

ASHLAND TEAMS PLAY

The Ashland Champs play the Ashland Babes in what should prove the feature game of the Girls' Municipal Basket Ball League round at the Mullanphy gym tonight. This game will start at 7:45 o'clock. The remainder of the schedule is as follows: St. Louis Girls vs. Matthews, 8:30; O. H. Girls vs. Mount Auburn Reds, 9:15. Rich Von Dach will referee.

RIALTO ATHLETIC CLUB NOW EXISTS OFFICIALLY; WILL EXPLOIT BOXING

Harry Morris, manager of the new Rialto Athletic Club, which expects to promote boxing and other athletic events here, announced yesterday that the club's new charter had just been received from Jefferson City.

The permanent home of the new club will be at Channing and Cook avenues, the old Crystal swimming pool. The club plans to remodel the building so that 6000 persons can view bouts during the winter time, while the swimming tank can be restored during the summer.

It had been planned to hold contests at the Coliseum pending the completion of the Channing avenue quarters, but this arrangement may be given up if it's found that the Lafayette A. C. is also to hold bouts in the same building. The new club does not want to have its identity confused with that of the club operated by Tommy Sullivan. Morris says his organization expects to hold only high-class bouts, probably at intervals of one month.

Morris is a former St. Louisan who developed glob-trotting tendencies. He has practically covered the continent in the promotion of various enterprises. It was Morris who put on the Fitzsimmons-Stenzel show at the old Armory and drew several thousand persons, more than 20 years ago here.

NICK KUBE AND BANDY TO MEET IN BOUT HERE

Nick Kube, St. Louis boxer who won the lightweight championship of the Fifth Naval District, and has a belt emblematic of the title, will meet Eddie Vandeventer, better known as "Kid Bandy," either next Tuesday night or the week following. The boys will box at Freddie Coyne's National Athletic Club.

They have been matched for 8 rounds and have agreed to make 135 pounds at 3 p. m.

WEST TO TRY FOR TWO TITLE TENNIS EVENTS

National Doubles and Clay Court Championships Will Be Bid for by W. L. T. A.

BY DAVISON OBEAR.
Secretary St. Louis Tennis Association.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—The Western Lawn Tennis Association at its annual meeting held here last night, decided to make a bid for this season's doubles tournament and the national clay courts championship event. A delegation composed of President Waidner, Robert L. Van Orsdale and Samuel Hardy will go to the national meeting in New York Feb 7 to try for the events. Eighty-two clubs were represented at the meeting.

At yesterday's meeting it also was decided that the three Western delegates should make a fight for the restoration of the sectional doubles' tournament.

Other measures adopted by the association were as follows:

1—Placing a 10-per-cent fee on entries of all tournaments sanctioned by the Western Association.

2—Continuation of efforts to obtain equal representation of voting power in the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association.

3—Newspaper publicity campaign to further interest in all subjects favored by the Western Association.

During the 1918 season, the Western Association sanctioned 23 major and 56 minor tournaments, the report of Secretary Stewart showed. St. Louis last year had 13 clubs of the Western Association.

Officers and other officials elected at yesterday's meeting were as follows:

L. H. Waidner, Winnetga, Ill., president; R. L. Van Orsdale, Chicago, first vice president; Pierre Porter, Kansas City, second vice president; J. C. Stewart, Chicago, secretary; R. F. Woods, Chicago, treasurer; H. S. Knox, Chicago; H. A. Bennett, Kansas City; Roland Hoerr, St. Louis; R. B. Roehr, Milwaukee; H. L. Meyers, Grinnell, Io., and W. T. Hayes, Chicago, directors.

State Field Secretaries: H. S. Walsh, Illinois; B. O. Bonebrake, Iowa; W. S. Pettet, Kansas; Dean Emerson, Michigan; Davidson Obear, Missouri; Joseph Adams, Nebraska; C. R. Rounds, Wisconsin. L. H. Waidner was named delegate to the U. S. T. A. and a member of the National Executive Committee.

Fulton 'Fesses Up.

FRED FULTON has a tale of woe,
He says the recent Dempsey go
Had all been prearranged.
He says that he was double crossed,
And that's the reason why he lost,
Without a punch exchanged.

'Twas to have been an exhibish,
And Fulton wasn't in condish
To go the bloomin' route;
They had it framed to fight a draw,
But Dempsey copped him on the jaw
And quickly knocked him out.

He claims Mike Collins did him dirt
In saying Dempsey wouldn't hurt
His husky protege;
For Dempsey promptly started in,
By tapping Frederick on the chin,
And putting him away.

And now deponent sayeth he
Is sorry that he did agree
To enter in the scheme;
And if the public will forgive
A life of probity he'll live,
His honor to redeem.

To which defendent makes reply
And says it's all a brazen lie—
The fight was on the square;
That Fulton wasn't double crossed,
The only reason why he lost—
He simply wasn't there!

POLICE ITEMS

BURGLARS RAIDED THE DRY GOODS store of L. G. Hilkmeyer, Union, Mo., early today, stealing $1500 worth of merchandise, according to a long distance telephone message to police here. The men were not seen, but were supposed to be en route here in automobiles.

MISCELLANEOUS

THE FEBRUARY GRAND JURY, SWORN in yesterday, was instructed by Judge Garesche to make thorough investigation of the killing and maiming of pedestrians by automobiles and to vote indictments where culpable negligence is shown. The foreman is Martin Lammert of 4490 Lindell boulevard.

A MAN ABOUT 65 YEARS OLD, WEARing a sweater with the letter "M" in the center, fell dead in a yard at 304 Clark avenue at 5 p. m. yesterday, a short time after he had asked to be allowed to rest in the house there.

EDWARD HOLDAWAY, 42, 1521 MISSOURI avenue, applied for treatment at the dispensary today for wounds on his left arm, which he said were caused by a monkey he had fondled in a pet shop at 523 Franklin avenue yesterday. FIRM RANGE TO STEEL SHARES IN NEW YORK

Prices in Leading Issues Show Slight Gains; Liberty Bonds Are Lower.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Prices on the stock market advanced briskly for a time this morning, came to a halt, and generally reacted in the afternoon. The one exception to the later decline was in a number of the railroad shares, which gained a point or thereabouts while the rest of the list was tending downward.

"At the highest level of the day, there were advances of from 1 to 3 per cent in motor stocks (a movement which Wall Street thought was due to the automobile show now in progress) a few oil shares and one or two of the railroad-equipment companies.

"Most of these advance was substantially wiped out, leaving prices at the closing but slightly above the level of yesterday.

"In the money market, there was the same condition of relative ease, represented by a rate of about 4 per cent. Scandinavian exchanges were somewhat higher, the rest practically unaltered.

"Russian internal 5½-per-cent bonds were two or three points higher on the day's business, but the 'dollar notes' were unchanged.

"The testimony before the House Agricultural Committee, regarding the Government's program for financing the 1919 wheat crop, points out again one very curious influence which will affect the financial situation, later on. The Government, to insure full planting when European famine was imminent during war time, guaranteed the price of $2.26 per bushel for this year's American wheat at market, and the guarantee stands, despite return of peace.

"But it leaves the highly troublesome question open as to how, if the Government has to take the wheat at such a price, it will fix its own price for selling it. Naturally, the matter is bound up in the other questions; first, how much lower than the guarantee figure will the export price go, under free competition with other producing countries; second, would the Government sell home consumers at the $2.26 price, or at some lower price fixed by its Food Administration, or at whatever price the home market would bring?

"Of these questions alone has to do with the facts of the coming season's market; the other is a matter of policy and politics. Nobody has any means of knowing surely what the world market price for wheat will be this year. Existing famine conditions will have something to do with determining it; so will the actual outcome of our own wheat crop of 1919, and so will the scarcity or abundance of the foreign crops.

"The grain trade as represented at yesterday's hearing, appears to think $1.25 per bushel a reasonable guess. It cannot be more than a guess, not only because of harvest uncertainties, but because it is quite impossible to say how far the existing 'pegged price' is out of line with normal values under present conditions.

"The witnesses calculated that sale of all its holdings at such a price might cost the Government $1,250,000,000. But that also would depend on how much wheat the country raises during 1919, as well as on the price fixed for sales at home.

"It is doubtful if a more curious economic question has ever before arisen; it will greatly affect the general attitude towards harvest results of coming season.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Firmer tendencies ruled in all sections of the list at the opening of today's stock market. United States Steel, motors, leathers and numerous specialties made gains ranging from large fractions to a point. Further recovery was observed in stocks recently under bear pressure, especially high-grade oils and investment rails.

Conspicuous among the latter were Canadian Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio, each goining a point. Early quotations for Liberty Bonds were irregular.

Advances in United States Steel, various motors, Hide and Leather preferred, American Sugar, American Smelting, Baldwin Locomotive and oils were generally enhanced during the first hour, Steel rising to 91, its best quotation since last week's cut in the extra dividend.

International Nickel continued strong, in disregard of yesterday's lower rate of dividend and specialties as a class profited by further short covering. Profit-taking and heaviness of Marine preferred reduced some of the more substantial gains at noon, when the market became extremely dull.

Reactions during the mid-session ran from 1 to 2 points in the more popular motors, oils and affiliated industrials, Cuban Cane also showing weakness. Offsetting features included the stronger tobacco group and a jump of 5½ points for New York Air Brake.

COTTON IS IRREGULAR AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—A further advance during today's early trading in the cotton market met active realizing and was followed by reactions. The opening was steady at an advance from 7 to 14 points and the market sold 25 to 42 points net higher shortly after the call on a renewal of yesterday's buying movement, with March touching 24.25c, May 23.16c and July, 22.30c.

This made an advance of about 250 to 350 points from the low levels of last month, and it seemed the impression around the ring that the technical position was easier.

There was also some Southern selling on the setback, which carried prices off to about last night's closing figures before the end of the hour.

Local traders said they saw no change in the news from domestic mill centers, but there was continued nervousness over industrial conditions generally and there may have been a feeling that the Southern selling here reflected spot offerings at the advance.

Reports that the strike at Lawrence was spreading throughout all the mills in that city seemed to render sellers more aggressive late in the morning and the break extended to 23.45c for March, 22.30c for May, and 21.45c for July, or about 40 to 46 points below last night's closing figures. Liverpool cabled that Manchester was becoming more active and reports from Memphis said there was a distinctly better inquiry for spots from houses with Liverpool connections.

The features failed to encourage any fresh buying of consequence, however, and the market was unsettled around midday, with prices at nearly the low point.

After selling off to 23.25c for March and 22.10c for May, or about 55 to 65 points net lower during the early afternoon, prices steadied on covering and the reports of an improving spot demand from Liverpool shippers. March rallied to 23.40c and May to 21.47c, with the market ruling about 35 to 45 points net lower around 2 o'clock.

MOVE FOR CHEAP WHEAT LOWERS CORN FUTURES

Traders Favor the Selling Side of Market in Merchants' Exchange; Oats Are Quiet but Lower.

Proposal by grain dealers before the Agricultural Committee that the Government pay the farmers $2.26 a bushel for the 1919 wheat crop, sell it at the world's market price and pocket the loss, caused weakness in corn futures here today, and prices averaged about 1c lower in the early session. The increase in the domestic wheat visible yesterday of nearly 2,000,000 bu, which made the total over 131,000,000 bushels, also gave bearish flavor to the market.

Weather was colder over the corn belt, but skies were clear. The winter wheat crop is badly in need of snow protection over a wide area.

Oats futures were weak with corn, after some early buying, and on slack cash and export demands.

March corn opened ⅜c lower at $1.30, then lost to $1.29¼; May opened ½c off at $1.24½, sold at $1.25⅝, then fell to $1.23¾ asked. May oats opened steady at 59¾c, then lost to 59¼c asked.

Corn receipts here today were 126,000 bu, against 53,000 bu last year. Shipments, 67,000 bu, against 57,000 bu. Oats receipts, 64,000 bu, against 80,000 bu. Shipments, 136,000 bu, against 84,000 bu. Wheat receipts, 62,000 bu, against 19,000 bu. Shipments, 47,000 bu, against 24,000 bu.

The corn market was 3c lower in the late session. Closing prices were near the lowest levels. Oats were about 1c lower.

Buenos Aires cabled: "The British Minister and Julio Moreno, acting Minister of Finance, have agreed to sign the cereal convention today. The convention provides for a loan of $200,000,000 gold by the allies to Argentina, and there will be no specification as to minimum prices and the quantity of grain to be purchased."

Minneapolis stocks of wheat increased 185,000 bu; oats increased 20,000 bu for three days. Shipments: flour 53,400 bbls; wheat 10 cars.

Broomhall's Liverpool cable said: "The Wheat Commission in the United Kingdom has reduced the price of corn in forward positions 15d to 20d per quarter. The greatest reduction is for Argentina corn, which is now offered at 70d against 90d per quarter the previous price. American corn is 15d per quarter lower at 76d for No. 2 mixed and 75d for No. 3 mixed. South African is 15d to 18d lower, the price varying from 73d for the lowest to 77d for the best qualities. Very little corn is being released by the Government, the only sales being reported, being yellow La Plata.

Clearances of wheat today 184,000 bu; corn none; oats 320,000 bu; flour, 6000 bbls; wheat and flour 211,000 bu.

Dealers Propose Government Sell Wheat at $1.25 a Bushel.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Grain dealers appearing yesterday before the House Agricultural Committee proposed that the Government pay the guaranteed price of $2.26 a bushel for the 1919 wheat crop and sell it to the consumer at the world market price, which, they estimated, would be about $1.25. The witnesses generally believed this plan would cost the Government probably a billion and a quarter dollars, but said this loss was preferable to any attempt on the part of the Government to maintain an artificial price. Representative Lever of South Carolina suggested three other plans—that the wheat movement be entirely on the pre-war basis; that the movement possibly be restricted by the Government being authorized to sell or buy so as to prevent manipulation, and that the domestic movement be entirely on the pre-war basis with the export movement under Federal control. The committee was holding hearings on the bill prepared by A. W. Glasgow, counsel for the Food Administration, in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture. The dealers strongly opposed continuation of the Food Administration's Grain Corporation, as provided in the bill. They, however, urged continuation of the corporation for buying and selling the crop.

FOREIGN NEWS CAUSES A LOWER MARKET FOR CORN

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Weakness developed in the corn market today, largely owing to announcement that Great Britain and Argentina would sign a convention at once, without any specifications as to minimum prices. As quotations here had advanced on account of reports that Argentina corn exports below a stated minimum would be forbidden, the effect of the new arrangement was bearish. Better weather in this country tended also to depress values.

Opening prices, which ranged from ⅝c off to ¼c advance, with May $1.20¾ to $1.21¼ and July $1.16⅝ to $1.16⅝, were followed by a material setback all around.

Oats declined with corn. After opening ⅛c to ⅜c higher, the market receded to well below yesterday's finish.

Higher quotations on hogs gave firmness to provisions. Trade was more active than has been the case of late.

Rallies which took place later were not of a decided character, and thye failed to hold. The close was heavy, 2½c to 3½c net lower, with May $1.17⅝ to $1.17⅝, and July, $1.13⅝ to $1.13¾.

Drawing the Line.

"SO you are a burglar!" said the prison visitor.

"Yes'm, I like other people's property, but I haven't the heart to be an anarchist an' get it by rough work."—Washington Star.

Choir Didn't Matter.

THE late Lord Alverstone's love of music made him for many years a member of the choir at Kensington parish church. A good many curious folk went to see the unusual spectacle of an Attorney-General in a surplice, but were not always able to identify him.

One of these visitors asked the verger which of the choirmen was the Attorney-General and received the dignified reply:

"That's the Vicar, them's the curates, I'm the verger, and so long as the choir gives satisfaction it's not my business to inquire into the antecedents of any of 'em."—London Chronicle.

TIRED, NERVOUS HOUSEWIFE TOOK VINOL

Now She is Strong and Well

"I was nervous, irritable, no appetite, could not sleep, and was always tired, so my housework was a great effort. After many other medicines had failed Vinol built me up and made me strong. I have a good appetite and sleep well. Every nervous, weak, ailing woman should try it."—Mrs. N. Edmunds, 2107 Dwight Way, Berkeley, Cal.

We ask every nervous, weak, rundown, ailing woman in this town to try this cod liver and iron tonic on our guarantee to return their money if it fails to help you.

Sincerity.

"JUDGE, all I ask of you is to temper justice with mercy."

"You say blind tiger whisky caused your downfall?"

"Yes, your honor."

"And you solemnly promise not to drink any more of that stuff?"

"Indeed I do, your honor. In fact, I've just sent a friend out to buy me a railroad ticket to the nearest wet town."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Damning With Faint Praise.

Proud Father: Well, Mac, what do you think of him?

Mac (critically surveying the parent): Och! not bad—conseedering.—London Opinion.

"Such Pimples! What a Shame!"

How pimples disfigure any face! And so often they can be done away with so easily!

When the bowels retain foodwaste it ferments and creates dangerous poisons which are absorbed into the blood. If the kidneys and lungs are overworked it falls to the skin pores to throw these poisons off. If they, too, fail, pimples result.

Empty the bowels thoroly and regularly and these poisons are not created. Your druggist has a preparation which will completely empty the bowels easily and pleasantly. It is called SALINOS, the pleasant laxative salts. Get a bottle for a Quarter (larger sizes Fifty Cents and a Dollar).

Get it today, take it tomorrow morning.—ADV.

National Conscience Vindicated.

A HORSE hitched to a wagon fell across the car tracks in front of a Government building.

In about two minutes the driver, assisted by the usual first aids, had unbuckled a lot of harness and the horse was up and on his way. And that was all there was to it, except that——

While a car waited for the track to be cleared an elderly man person, who looked as if he considered the world a big mistake, said to a man beside him:

"Cast your eye at the windows of that office, sir; every one alive with men and women! If the clerks of a department will leave their desks and fritter away the Government's time over a trifling sight like this what, sir, I ask, must be the state of our national conscience?"

The man next had cast up an eye per request, and chuckled with the heartiness of one who sleeps well, eats three solid meals a day and treats his wife like a perfect lady.

"Say friend, you've got it all balled up. You are so busy looking at the windows that you overlook the clocks. Noon means lunch time."

And the national conscience was vindicated.—Washington Star.

Not Positive.

"Have you been following this trial?"

"Yes."

"Is the defendant as beautiful as they say?"

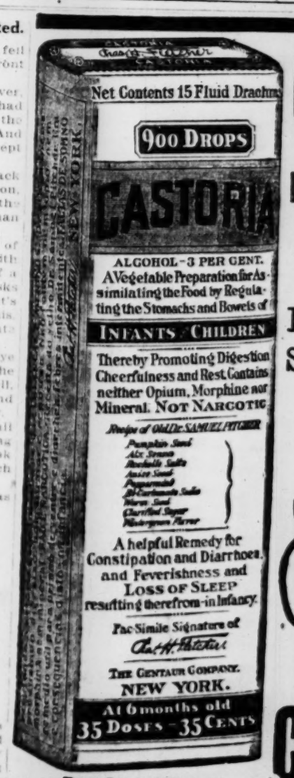

"Well, she is beautiful enough to be acquitted. If you mean to ask if she is beautiful enough for vaudeville, I dunno."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A New Vocabulary.

WITH the returning gobs from Great Lakes all the country will receive a liberal education in navy slang. It will soon be nothing shocking to hear one magnificently gowned society matron remark to her hostess of the afternoon:

"Really, Mrs. Jones, I must 'shove off.' Marie may not have all the 'hammocks lashed' properly and 'chow' will have to be prepared. Besides, it is after 'three bells.'"

"'Pipe down,' the hostess will reply. "'Stand by' or you're 'No Soap' with me."—Great Lake Bulletin.
